East Glendale Advancement Association Hears of Completion of Hotel Financing and Start of Electrification of Glendale

STANLEY SUBMITS REPORT ON LOCATION

Dr. Harrower Reports on Efforts to Induce Pacific Electric to Extend Their Broadway Line Now to Verdugo Road

The big impression made by the meeting of the East Glendale Advancement association at its luncheon Thursday noon at the Broadway Inn, at which covers were laid for about forty, was that the organization never rests, that it finishes what it begins and goes from task to task.

The report of the hotel committee made by President Ingledue at the request of the committee chairman, Mrs. Mabel Tight, showed that all the funds needed have been pledged, though not all the pledges have been rounded up and signed their names on the dotted line of the escrow instructions. Though there would be some shrinkage, as always in collections, he felt reasonably certain none would default, but he urged the securing of some extra subscriptions to make assurance doubly sure.

Now that the hotel project is assured, it was agreed that the next big endeavor should be to raise the promised bonus of $25,000, which will insure the electrification of the Glendale avenue line, and to that proposition most of the session was devoted.

A cheering piece of news was released by Charles Stanley, chairman of the postoffice committee, to the effect that he had found, he thought, a location for a branch office which the committee would recommend to Postmaster Jackson and the department, viz.: At the northeast corner of Broadway and Howard, opposite the city hall. It is owned by a Mr. Jones of this city and his sister, who is living in Seattle. Mr. Jones has expressed himself as favorable to a proposition to erect such a building as Postmaster Jackson has called for with a 25-foot frontage and depth of 75 feet. A letter has been sent to the lady in Seattle and it is hoped something definite can be reported to the association next Thursday.

Several visitors were introduced, Mr. Arthur Meadows of Dover, Kans.; Mr. Larr of Minneapolis and Dr. Jessie Russell. At the request of President Ingledue, Dr. Russell gave a report of the conference of representatives of the five improvement associations of Glendale with members of the chamber of commerce civic committee, at which they were addressed by Ralph Criswell, president of the Los Angeles city council, and Dr. Pomeroy, county health officer, relative to sewage disposal systems and the plans of Los Angeles for a $12,000,000 system and outfall sewer, as reported in the Glendale Daily Press in the issue of Wednesday. Dr. Russell indorsed the sentiment that the benefits from electrifying the Glendale avenue line will be felt by the entire city and there should be no disposition to saddle the whole expense on the Glendale avenue frontage, though it should be willing to pay its reasonable share.

On motion of Herman Nelson, amended by Dr. Harrower, Messrs. Perch and McClish were added to the transportation committee, of which John Lampert is chairman, with the understanding that the committee will meet at the office of Mrs. Tight on East Broadway Friday evening to formulate plans, and that an intensive campaign will begin Monday morning. Mr. Ingledue and others present reported that Mr. Trainor, president of the Glendale-Montrose line, is getting impatient over the delay and may feel disposed to drop the project unless it is immediately pushed to a conclusion. Mr. Stanley reported favorable interviews with Mr. Sparr and representatives of Judge Ross and the Newport company and his expectation that they would make generous subscriptions now that announcement has been made that the fare from Verdugo Woodlands to Glendale will not be increased.

Dr. Harrower reported an effort on his part to induce the Pacific Electric to extend its line on Broadway now to Verdugo road, the site of the new high school, to the end that its switching tracks at Sycamore canyon road, which the city is about to improve, would be removed. Otherwise, he pointed out, that boulevard will no sooner be down that it will be torn up and disfigured by the removal of the tracks when the line is extended. He added that this, and the matter of express service, will be taken up at a conference which Attorney G. H. King, chairman of the chamber of commerce railroad committee, will have this week with Pacific Electric officials. To promote the Pacific Electric extension Dr. Harrower suggested that the city council be urged to offer a franchise to the railway company.

On motion of Mr. Stanley, seconded by Mrs. Tight, President Ingledue appointed a membership promotion committee composed of Messrs. Stanley, Perch and Harrington.

CENTRAL AND LOS FELIZ SERVICE STATION OK'D

G. W. Anderson Secured Consent of City Council

G. W. Anderson, speaking for Charles B. Anderson and William Green, asked the council last night for permission to erect an oil service station at the intersection of Central and Los Feliz. According to Mr. Anderson some residents in that section of the city are against the improvement. He stated, also, that on the srengh of tha propery being set aside for business, he purchased that lot recently for $5750, and that the station he proposed putting on this property would cost about $4000.

In as much as this property has been set aside for business the council decided the only thing it could do was to return the batter to the building inspector with instructions to permit the work o proceed.

SERVICE POLES TO BE REMOVED

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company stated through a communication to the city council last night that it is perfectly willing to co-operate with the council in the removal of poles from West Broadway. The proposition is to take the poles from Broadway and set them along the northern line of the property which faces on Broadway, this leaving the street entirely clear of all of these obstructions.

CITY ATTORNEY SHAW GETS LEAVE

City Attorney Hartley Shaw was granted a two-weeks' leave of absence, commencing next Tuesday, by the council last night. Mr. Shaw will spend this time in San Francisco, where he will attend the convention of the California Bar association and the National Bar association.

WHY NOT PAY RENT TO YOURSELF?

Flappers Are Found to Have Existed Throughout the Ages

If you want to know something about flappers, especially if you believe they are of recent origin, read what James W. Foley has to say this evening in "The Listening Post." Flippancy and evil, he says, are always things of the present because we are here to see. Courage, virtue and honesty are always in the good old times because memory sets down the good things and glosses over the weaknesses and imperfections. Mr. Foley's article tonight may startle you—it certainly will interest you.

Henry James in his comment on the day's news, sees in the visit of Will Hays something of great good, and writes of the future of the motion picture industry.

Dr. Frank Crane tonight starts a series of ten articles on "What Is Democracy?" It would be well for the reader to start with the first article, which starts tonight, for Dr. Crane has put into these considerable thought and information. You will find them on the editorial page, together with all the other splendid features of this newspaper.

WHAT WOULD YOU NAME NEW CITY PARK?

Dr. Russell Is Compiling Suggestions for Committee to Consider

Considerable interest is being manifested in the contest for a name for Glendale's new city park, which is being conducted under the auspices of the civic committee of the Glendale chamber of commerce. The contest has run only a few days and already 30 name suggestions have been offered. Many of these are exceedingly appropriate and the committee of judges will have its hands full in selecting the winner.

The following names have already been sent to Dr. Jessie A. Russell, chairman of the civics committee:

Grand Central park, Glen Wood park, Patterson park, Shad Side park, Woodland View park, Golden State park, Jewel City park, Glen Rock park, Glenwood park, Alfrisco park, Forum park, Liberty park, Jewel park, Verdugo Glen, Oak Crest park, Woodland Glenn, Glen park, Sylcan Glen park, Glendugo park, Glen Erie, Gleneria, Oak Glen park, Jewel Glen park, Glen Dale, Verdglen park, North Glen park, East Glen park, Oak Glen park, Ravenna, Glendale Rustic park, Glendale Wonderland park.

Still another suggests that it be known as Verdugo park, because many years ago the king of Spain gave that land to Pedro Verdugo and it has bore that name.

ELECTRICIANS ARE FINISHING WORK

Electricians are still at work in Glendale postoffice, but the end of their labors is in sight.

The steel cage on the west side of the workroom, where incoming mail is received from the trucks, and where it is delivered to the trucks, is in place and being used daily. It prevents any entrance to the workroom from the rear by strangers, as the doors to the cage are kept locked. It will also be a convenience to big shippers, who can come direct to the cage to receive direct from the attendant in charge, any big packages they may be expecting instead of having to wait to receive them through the front delivery windows. In the same way it will serve them when they have large packages to ship by mail.

On Thursday, Uncle Sam presented the office with a fine, big truck to replace the little ones which have been in use. It has been stationed under the balcony, which has been fitted up as a rest room for carriers and other men employes between shifts. A large table provides a place for the playing of games and there are magazines and newspapers, and the lockers containing their civilian clothes are arranged about the walls within easy reach.

The primary this year will virtually determine the elections. Register at the city hall.

TRAFFIC "ENFORCEMENT"

The Glendale Daily Press on July 6 called editorial attention to the traffic-enforcement policy being established in the city. It called to the attention of the public and the authorities that such a policy is fatal to the good-will of the traveling public toward Glendale. Fatal to the cooperation of citizens and the administration of the city affairs.

The advice was not heeded. Policemen, acting under instructions, continue to enforce the letter of the law, obeying its literal interpretation. They gave a fine exhibition of discipline and obedience. Which puts the matter strictly up to the city, the officials who issue such orders.

Today there will appear in court approximately 15 automobile owners, caught, all in one group, in their cars, trying to find out what the authorities expected of them at San Fernando and Brand.

Acting under the instructions, they were treated as though they were anything but intelligent citizens, not only of the United States, but of Glendale.

The Glendale Daily Press today reiterates its advice of July 6. It hopes that it will be carefully read. If there is any force in public opinion in Glendale, the Press invites owners to align with this newspaper in expressing that opinion that such traffic regulation be changed.

The Glendale Daily Press holds no brief for the speed maniac. It does hold a brief for the innocent victim, for the citizen in his car, who unintentionally violates a traffic rule, hard to define.

A clear exposition of the kind of traffic enforcement this means can be found under the caption, "Editorials by the People," written by W. S. Rattray of 286 Kenneth road, published today, than whom there is no more conservative citizen in matters of car-driving. The editorial by Mr. Rattray is worthy of study by our officials—and all citizens.

Our editorial of July 6 is reprinted here for reading:

While we are on the subject of the discussion of obstacles in the path which brings trade to Glendale we would suggest that the traffic situation be handled with more generosity towards the citizen or visitor who violates an ordinance through lack of knowledge. We would suggest that our city fathers have large signs placed at the different entrances to Glendale, advising the speed requirements on entering the city, and that signs be placed in districts where the speed requirements have changed.

We cannot lose sight of the fact that there has been a lot of criticism on our traffic situation. Whether just or unjust, it does harm to Glendale and spreads very quickly. If this criticism can be eliminated by showing consideration towards innocent violators and a campaign of education, why not do it? * * *

Traffic and parking ordinances have cut the trade of Los Angeles merchants so as to hurt. Let us profit by their experience.

REAL ESTATE IS BOOMING AGAIN

Close Days of July Sees Active Trading Resumed

The note of optimism concerning the demand for Glendale real estate is swelling into a chorus. Arthur Campbell reports great improvement in the call for homes within the past two weeks.

His most notable sale of the week was made to Frank Wiggins, who has been secretary of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce for many years and who probably knows Southern California more thoroughly than any other man in public life. The fact that he has chosen this city for his home is a great feather in the cap of Glendale, in the opinion of Mr. Campbell. It should mean much to the town because Mr. Wiggins' first name is "booster," and that is the secret of his long term of office in the Los Angeles chamber. For that reason he is likely to influence many others to follow his example and in that sense will be a great asset to the city.

He has bought a lot in the Hillcrest subdivision on Kenneth road, next to the property owned by his assistant secretary, A. G. Arnoll, who has improved it with an attractive residence. Mr. Wiggins plans to build in the not distant future.

Mr. Campbell says that the chief demand appears to be for homes ranging in value from $5000 to $5500. The majority want terms, but he has made two cash sales recently. The inquirers are tourists for the most part, coming from all sections of the United States.

J. W. Mackey, who is associated with Harry Miller in the real estate business, has come to Glendale after a residence of 21 years in Spokane. He says the business of his office has been exceptionally good for July and he looks for a large volume of transactions in September. The increased demand has been especially noticeable the past two weeks. Like all newcomers he is exceedingly enthusiastic and declares Glendale is the only place to live.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Saturday unsettled with thunderstorms in the mountains.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair with moderate temperatures tonight and Saturday. Cloudy or foggy in the morning.

SIGHT RESTORED AT LONG BEACH

Hospital Sucecssfully Operatees on Eyes of Mrs. B. G. Peterson

LONG BEACH, July 28.—Mrs. B. G. Peterson, of 227 East Fifth street, has left the Long Beach hospital with restored sight after the successful removal of an obstruction to her vision that had rendered her blind in the left eye for several years.

PRIVATE POLICE PATROLS APPLY

Two applications to operate private police patrols in Glendale were received by the city council last night. One of these was from the Ira J. Herbert and the other from B. R. Simms and R. O. Scott, who will operate under the name of "Glendale Private Police." Both of these applications were referred to the chief of police.

DRIVING WITHOUT HIS LICENSE

Everett Haggbloom of 5847 San Pedro street, Los Angeles, was taken into police headquarters last night by Motorcicle Officers Collins and Booth. The charge against him is driving a machine without an operator's license. Also the registration certificate was not in the car. As he was unable to furnish bail he was locked in Station No. 1.

REVOLVER THIEF STEALS COLT

Some one entered the office of Holliday and White, 402 East Broadway, yesterday, and got away with a dandy Colts .45 revolver. The matter was reported to the police by G. W. White of that firm, but up to this time the identity of the thief has not been ascertained.

ANOTHER JURY DELIBERATES

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Another jury was expected to be deliberating over the fate of Madalynne Obenchain tonight.

Deputy District Attorney Asa Keyes declared he would finish by noon his argument accusing Mrs. Obenchain of the murder of her former sweetheart, John Belton Kennedy.

"Brick! Get Y'Suit—Swimmin' Pool's Open Tomorrow"

"Brick, oh Brick, go get your bathin' suit. The kids is going up to the new swimmin' pool."

The streets of Glendale will ring with cat valls such as this, tomorrow, for bright and early the pool will be thrown open to all the youngsters, and the grown-ups, too. The pool has been completed and the residents of Glendale may now have the pleasure of enjoying the personal touch of pure mountain water—on the outside.

The water supplied to the citizens of Glendale cannot be surpassed for purity anywhere in the country, and it is natural to suppose that it is just as welcome for external use as internal showers.

While the finishing touches are still to be made on some portions of the buildings, the pool itself, and also the shallow wading pool is ready for use. There has been a great cry during the past few weeks with regard to the pool not being finished. The council has been doing all it could to get this feature completed, although many were the outside expressions to the contrary. And now that it is finished, it is up to the people of Glendale to make use of it during the summer months. There are still three months in which this bathing feature may be used and the prospects are that it will be kept working overtime so long as the summer days remain.

There will be a small charge made for the maintenance of the pool. These will be as follows: Ages up to 16 years—Towel, 5 cents; suit, 5 cents; service, 5 cents; total, 15 cents. Over 16 years—Towel, 5 cents; suit, 5 cents; service, 15 cents; total, 25 cents. A charge of 20 cents will be made for a bathing cap. The plunge will be filled twice a week and will be disinfected twice a day.

Roy Biddlecom, an expert swimmer, is in charge of the pool, and George Schell, also an expert water performer, will be his assistant. One or both of these young men will be in attendance at the pool at all times.

VALLEY SUPPLY CO. HOST TO ROTARY CLUB

George Kerr Presides in Absence of Roy Kent; Good Program Given

An interesting excursion through the Valley Supply company occupied the greater part of the meeting of the Glendale Rotary club at noon, Thursday.

This was their regular meeting, and the delicious luncheon, which included broiled chicken, was served at the chamber of commerce auditorium. Attendance at this meeting was not so good as usual, on account of so many members being away on their vacations.

In the absence of the president, Roy Kent, the vice-president, George Karr, presided over the meeting. Franc Henry, the club song leader, led in the singing of several snappy songs, and after several impromptu talks by the members, Val Hollister gave a talk on his business. The club in a body then adjourned to the Valley Supply company as his guests, and were taken through the entire plant. Mr. Hollister explained the uses of the different machinery.

The Valley Supply company is recognized as one of the most complete plants in Southern California, their equipment enabling them to buy direct from the producer and grinding and mixing their own foods.

In leaving, each member was presented with a Japanese bamboo broom, as a souvenir, and after giving "three cheers for Val," the members departed for their respective places of business.

GRAND MASTER OF ODD FELLOWS DUE

The meeting of the Odd Fellows was held last night in their new hall, corner of West Broadway and Orange street. This was a business session.

Plans were made for the greeting and entertaining of their grand master, James Ryan, Jr., who will be here August 4. They are looking forward to a good time while he is here.

MACHINES COLLIDE

Wendell H. Patten of 609 South Glendale avenue was operating a machine that collided at 10:30 yesterday morning with a car driven by Fer G. Tana of Atwater avenue. The accident took place on San Fernando road. Both cars were battered up somewhat, but no one was hurt.

$50,000 BUILDING ORDERED BY SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA GAS COMPANY IN GLENDALE

Bids to Be Submitted in Ten Days for Structure to Be Started on Maryland Between Wilson and Broadway

FRONTAGE OF 88 FEET OF MODEL BUILDING

Semi-Spanish Architecture Designed by G. Lawrence Stimson Company Will Add Greatly to Appearance of the District

The Southern California Gas company has decided to erect a new building in the city of Glendale on two lots recently purchased by them on Maryland avenue, between Wilson avenue and Broadway. This will be one of the best buildings of its class in the city. The G. Lawrence Stimson company are now preparing the plans, which will be submitted for bids within the next ten days, and, as soon as the contract is let, construction work will start.

Owing to the rapid growth of Glendale and the increased business of the company, it has been found necessary to provide larger quarters. The building will have a frontage of 88 feet on Maryland street, extending back 120 feet, and will provide a garage, storeroom, women's restroom, meter-proving room, locker rooms and a fine, well-lighted office with ample space for the use of the public, with a counter on one side and a large space where various gas appliances will be on exhibition.

The style of architecture will be semi-Spanish, almost suggesting the classic rather than the usual ornate type. The columns, cornice and ornamental details will be of architectural terra cotta, and the walls and pilasters of stucco on masonry. Almost the entire front is given over to show windows to display the newest and best gas appliances as they are put on the market.

The building will be of class "B" construction, the roof being supported on reinforced concrete columns and girders; the walls, both exterior and interior, are to be of masonry, and the sash and doors of steel. The foundations and columns are being designed for a two-story building, since the growth of the city will probably require the addition of another story within a few years.

The interior will be finished in gumwood and the design will be in keeping with that of the exterior.

It is expected that the company will occupy the new structure on or before January 1, 1923.

DRIVE FOR LINE ON GLENDALE IS NEXT

East Side Folks Clean Up Hotel and Start Second Project

Now that the project of a hotel at Glendale and Broadway has been put over, the electrolizing of Glendale avenue is to be taken up and a real drive instituted for the bonus of $25,000. To that end members of the transportation committee of the organization, seven in number, and any others who are ready to volunteer for active work, are asked to meet for organization Friday evening at the office of Mrs. Mabel Tight, 612 East Broadway.

PRESS-NEWTON PROGRAM IS APPRECIATED

Mrs. Mac McMillan and Mrs. MacMullin Make Big Hit

"Tell those ladies for me that they are in a class by themselves on that piano," was the statement made by Mr. Curry of Los Angeles. Mrs. J. McMillan and Mrs. Clifford Riggs were the artists in mention, and served the radio fans with two piano duets at the opening of the program.

"I want to congratulate Mrs. Helen E. MacMullin on her wonderful voice," said Mrs. Andrews, of Burbank. Mrs. Andrews was permitted to speak to Mrs. MacMullin on the telephone, and as a result, Mrs. MacMullin is certain that radio is more wonderful than one could imagine. The clever modulation of accompaniment by Mrs. Hagood was a distinctive feature of the evening.

"I certainly had a good laugh over the reading given by that little girl," stated a Glendalian on South Pacific Avenue. Miss Jacquelin Barton, aged 9 years, who gave the reading, also sang "California." She was accompanied on the piano by Miss Pansy Corpe, who also rendered "Leave Me With a Smile," a selection which was requested from Los Angeles.

Other reports were more lengthy, in which the Angelenos declared that KFAC was much louder in Los Angeles than KOG, and that there was no comparison in the clearness of this station and KOG. Still, the Evening Herald radiophone is supposed to be the fourth best station in Los Angeles, with KYJ taking fifth place, KNX sixth and KUY seventh.

AFTER SLAYERS

SAN BERNARDINO, July 28.—Police and deputies today were seeking to establish the identity of the slayers of Roy E. Burton, special deputy on guard duty at the Santa Fe yards, whose body was found near the west end of the yards last night.

Indications were that Burton had bpeen ambushed near the viaduct and that he had returned the fire with his revolver, which was found with three cartridges discharged. Three bullet wounds were in the body.

ALLISON STAGES BIG REDUCTION IN PAINTS

Sale Starts Today and Continues Until Overstock Is Moved

A special reduction sale on everything in the paint line has been instituted by Lexie H. Allison, the paint man, of 105-07 West Broadway. The sale started the first thing this morning and will be continued until the overstock is reduced.

The goods that are being offered by Mr. Allison are all strictly fresh and good, and in this sale he is offering the people of Glendale one of the greatest opportunities they have ever had to secure the finest qualities of paint at cut prices.

A full line of wallpaper, both domestic and foreign, in the very latest designs and patterns, is also being put on during this sale. There will also be rubberoid, roofing paper, Cronolite, Santo, Red Risusto, Gray sheathing and Sannatos, all of which are well-known by active builders as being the best in their lines. Varnishes, wallpaper and painters' supplies will also have a prominent place in this sale.

On account of the very low prices that are being placed on the paints and supplies, the terms for this sale will be strictly cash.

"Now is the time to paint your home," said Mr. Allison this morning. "These prices are the lowest we have ever offered, and the wise home builder will lay in a stock now for his future needs."

Hebe was the Greek goddess of youth and the cup-bearer to the gods. She was represented as a very beautiful young girl.

"GET ACQUAINTED" SALE SCHEDULED

A sensational "get acquainted" sale will start at the Army & Navy store, 291 South Brand boulevard, tomorrow morning. The proprietors of this sale realize the value of getting acquainted with the people with whom they expect to do business. They are aware of the fact that only by knowing personally the customer can any firm expect to make rapid strides ahead. And it is to secure a closer touch with the customer—in other words, to get on "speaking terms" with the prospective buyer—that this gigantic sale is being put on.

The goods that are carried by the Army & Navy store are too well-known to require describing. During the past few months the people of Glendale have found it to their interest to trade at that establishment. They have found that every sale is backed up by the "square deal" idea, that the sale is not considered made by the Army & Navy people until the customer is entirely satisfied. This is the policy that is responsible for the "mushroom" growth of this institution in Glendale.

The sale that will start tomorrow morning will include everything in the store. There are men's hose, shirts, underwear, overalls, army goods of all kinds, camping equipment—in fact, almost everything that a person could think of.

Listen to what the proprietors of this establishment say of this sale:

"While we boast with pride of many thousands of satisfied customers, we are out to win the patronage of every man and woman who is interested in saving money on their daily needs. T herefore, we have decided, during this get acquainted sale, to make it particularly interesting for prospective customers to visit this establishment when, during a period of three days, we will offer, in addition to our well-known bargains, hundreds of items practically at cost. We expect to make this our greatest sale."

"Fine" Is the Word She Used

We asked a lady who has been planning to build a home, just what she thought of this brand new house plan.

She said she thought it was very fine. And perhaps that word is as good as any. Words are hard to juggle with anyway, especially when used to express pleasure, satisfaction and things like that.

Look the floor plans of this over carefully, and then think of the word you would like to use to describe your satisfaction with it. You will like this plan—we are sure of that.

VICE IS ONLY EXECSS OF VIRTUE?

LONDON, July 27.—Criminals are bad because they are too virtuous to be good, according to the theory of Dr. Bernard Hollander, famous mental specialist and psycho-analyst.

"Vice is frequently only virtue in excess," Dr. Hollander said, in a lecture at the Society of Arts and Sciences, "as when prudence is turned into cowardice, courage into rashness, economy into avarice, liberality into prodigality, liberty into license, and constancy into obstinacy.

"Most crime is due to the failure of inhibitory control. It is a familiar fact that people of otherwise irreproachable honesty will swindle the tax collector or a railway company, steal an umbrella or some other small article with untroubled equanimity. If they are taxed with the incongruity between their principles and their conduct, a varied crop of reasoned excuses will be immediately produced

"Mankind's follies and crimes are mainly due to the uncontrolled operations of the instinctive nature of man."

ACACIA MOTHERS ARE ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Robert H. Lord, of 1270 South Boynton street, entertained the Acacia avenue Mothers' club at an afternoon tea on Thursday.

During the afternoon the ladies made plans to raise money in order to furnish the teachers' rest room in the new Acacia avenue school building. In the near future, they will start sewing on curtains and cushions. A sum of $3.25 was realized for this purpose yesterday afternoon by taking a silver offering. At the close of the afternoon, fruit ade and wafers were served.

It is their plan to give one of these silver teas each week, at the homes of the different members. Mrs. Loren Mitchell, of 1237 South Boynton will entertain the ladies on next Thursday.

Guests present were Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mrs. A. Wilson, Mrs. F. J. Windas, Mrs. Emma Sudlow, Mrs. C. E. Seger, Mrs. Sturges, Mrs. Earl Hitchcock, Mrs. Loren Mitchell, Mrs. Bullis, Miss May Cornwell, Mrs. E. S. Strong and Mrs. C. Newton.

MACHINERY INTO INDIA

Lal Singh, a native of India and a graduate of the University of California with the class of 1921, will return to the Punjab soon, where he will introduce modern American machinery into the agriculture of that country, building up a new market for the product of American factories as well as improving the life and conditions of his countrymen. Singh has also pursued graduate work in the University of California, receiving the degree of master of science in May, 1922.

He has made a special study of possible new uses for cull citrus fruits and is a co-author with W. V. Cruess, associate professor of fruit products, of a new circular, "Marmalade Juice and Jelly Juice from Citrus Fruits," issued recently by the University of California agricultural experiment station. An article by Singh, "A New Citrus By-Product," has appeared in the California Countryman and another article on "The Factors Involved in the Making of Jellies and Marmalade from Citrus Fruits," will appear in the near future in Canning Age, a trade journal.

PROPAGANDA OF O. U. HULL IS REPUDIATED

Indignant at Violation of His Congregation's Prayer Meeting

The deliberate violation of the solemn hour of prayer at the First Methodist church, by O. U. Hull of Orange, in weaving into a lengthy prayer an attack upon the Anti-Saloon league, has stirred Dr. Crist and his congregation in indignation.

The prayer, printed as a news item in the Glendale Daily Press, is a clear exposition of the methods pursued by Mr. Hull in his insidious campaign, in violation of all courtesy of congregations, seeking not to stimulate religious conviction and feeling, but to spread propaganda.

Mr. Hull was a stranger to Dr. Crist. He was unknown to the members of the congregation.

When Dr. Crist asked for sentence prayers, he rose and, before the outraged congregation, poured forth nearly 2000 words leading to his attack on the Anti-Saloon league. It was the first political address which anyone had the temerity to deliver to a praying congregation in Glendale. It was a sacrilege never before attempted.

Before appearing at the church, Mr. Hull came to the Glendale Daily Press and, without stating so, left the impression that a prayer he was to give was a special feature of the Wednesday night services.

Had his plans been known, that he intended to deliberately invade a Glendale church at its peaceful worship, he would have received scant courtesy.

The following letter from Rev. Dr. rCist reveals the depth of indignation that marks Hull's departure:

Editor Glendale Press,
My Dear Sir and Brother:

In your issue of last evening there appeared an article under the following caption: "O. U. Hull Visits First Methodist Church."

This, in all justice and decency, should be answered so as to give the people of Glendale a correct idea of just what took place and how it was at all possible. The said O. U. Hull of Orange county, who announces himself as "some great one," and presumes to take advantage of a worshiping congregation by foisting upon them his insane drivel by putting it in the form of a prayer, adds insult to injury by seeing that the said "prayer" is printed verbatim in the Glendale Press.

At a time when the pastor asked for sentence prayers, this O. U. Hull (the significance of whose initials and name are pathetically hidden from their possessor), had the temerity to express his imprecatory utterances against one of the greatest and most effective organizations in the reform world today—the Anti-Saloon league of America.

As pastor of the First Methodist church and representing, as I do, the congregation that suffered the imposition, I claim the privilege of challenging the motive and the conduct of the said O. U. Hull of Orange county.

(Signed) C. M. CRIST.

KNIGHTS ENJOY INVITATION NIGHT

Good Program Is Provided for Meeting of Guests

An unusually enjoyable "invitation night" was given by the local members of the Knights of Pythias lodge at their hall, corner Park avenue and Brand boulevard, last night. Something like 150 members and invited guests gathered at the hall, which had been prettily decorated for the affair by the Pythian Sisters.

Practically all of the evening was passed in dancing and card playing. Monologues, songs and other entertainment features were given by artists from Los Angeles, and these added considerably to the evening's enjoyment.

The program of the evening was under the personal charge of Vice Chancellor Melzer, who was ably assisted by Prelate Williams.

Refreshments, which were served under the personal direction of Mrs. F. E. Peters, were partaken of near the close of the evening.

The local Knights of Pythias lodge is making elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the delegation of past grand chancellors who, en route to the supreme lodge in San Francisco, will arrive in Los Angeles next Thursday afternoon. They will remain in Los Angeles for two days, during which time it is hoped that many of them may be brought to Glendale.

Every time a man has his fortune told he gets rid of a small portion of it.

Listening in on Eve

"Where is William?" demanded the head of the house, surveying the vacant seat at the dinner table as the soup came on. "Doesn't he know that he is due at dinner at a quarter of 1? Isn't he to be here?"

"I hope so," William's mother made haste to reply. "He is up in his room trying the effect of all his neckties on his newest silk shirt. James. He has six ties and it requires some time to tie each one, so I am afraid he may be a little late——"

"Ties!" snorted the delinquent one's father. "Why, it wasn't five minutes ago that we had to lick him in order to get him to put a tie on. He was all for the free and untrammeled life. Why should he suddenly want to loop six ties, let alone one, around his neck? What's the matter with him, anyhow?"

"They do grow up, you know," offered William's mother. "He is anxious to look nice tonight because he is calling on a girl and taking her to the movies—quite a nice girl—that little Elsie Ringbell. She is only 15 and her mother says she can bake splendid cake."

"Great Scott!" cried the head of the family in bewildered alarm. "Are they laying traps already for my son? At his age? Cake! You know perfectly well, Bengaline, that given plenty of cake a boy of 16 is not in the least responsible for what he does and if they elope on the strength of a chocolate frosting any sensible spectator would lay it at your door. Cracking up her daughter to you, is she? Starting early, I'll say. What are you doing about it?"

"There isn't anything to do anything about!" declared his wife tartly. "Don't be silly. Elsie Ringbell is still a little girl and William is a mere child."

"There isn't such a thing as a little young girl any more!" stormed William's father emphatically. "All the little girls I can see on the street are sophisticated, grown-up ladies with their eye out for the main chance, and they won't look at a boy unless he can spend a barrel of money on them! Didn't you tell me yourself about William's friend, Herbert, who took his girl to the theater downtown and supper at the Pinkstone, and blew in $35 on the deed? I'm not going to have William think he can start anything like that——"

"William has just $2 a week spending money," reminded his mother distinctly, "so there is no chance of his bursting into the role of the boy millionaire, unless he robs a bank, and he is usually in bed at the hour when it is customary to break into a bank! I think it is a good thing for him to get interested in washing behind his ears and in collars and ties and such things!"

"Yes, but it won't stop there!" insisted William's father, gloomily, scowling at the roast set before him. "It's just the beginning. He'll fall in love next and the whole place will be a riot of reams of paper with poetry on it and he'll putting salt in his cofee and cream on his bacon and irritating me with absent-minded ways like that. No boy of 16 has sense enough to know better than to fall in love and, anyhow, when he does, I'm going to have something to say about it! I'm not going to have him tie up for life with a girl whose only recommendation is that she can bake a cake without burning it, and whose mother is so anxious to get rid of her that she has no conscience about roping in a young boy——"

"My goodness!" said his wife. "She told me about Elsie's cake after I had mentioned how smart William was to have fixed the electric bell."

"Huh!" said his father, "you're at it, too, are you? Drumming up a daughter-in-law. Putting such notions in their heads! He's probably packing his grip now and dropping it out of the window. If he doesn't get down here pretty quick he isn't going to get any dinner, let me tell you. This is just a sample of what will happen now that he has a girl on the brain. He's probably trying on all my imported ties, too, doggone him."

"I never saw you act so," remonstrated William's mother. "You are serving gravy on the green peas, James—look out! Nothing is going to happen at all and you needn't get so excited! Did you suppose your son never was going to begin going around with the girls?"

"When he reached a suitable age," declared William's father severely. "After he has finished high school and college and is established in business I shall have no objections to his calling on a girl, but at 16—and she can make cake. It's lucky I'm here to take a hand in this. You're late," as the object of the discussion entered the room.

William, scrubbed, red-cheeked, white-collared and with a magnificently tied necktie of his own, slid into his chair. "I'm sorry," he said in a youthful treble. "Gee, but I'm hungry! I could eat a house!"

"H'm!" muttered his father, eyeing his son's glory, a look of paternal satisfaction overspreading his countenance. "Hungry, are you? Well, I guess there's nothing serious if you can still eat. You're a good-looking boy, if I do say it, Bill, and you can knock the spots off all the rest of 'em. Go to it."

"Wachu talking about?" inquired William. "Say, can I have that biggest baked potato?"

Charlie came in late for tea on Sunday afternoon with a very faraway look in his cherubic blue eyes.

"Did you go to Sunday school?" asked his mother.

"Yes," replied Charlie.

"Well, how is it your hands smell so fishy?" asked suspicious mother, as the youngster held out his paw for a piece of cake.

Charlie considered the question for a while, and then said:

"Well, you see, mother—I—carried home the Sunday school paper and the outside of it was all about Jonah and the whale!"

HILLSDALE, NEW JERSEY, FIRE LASSIES IN FIGHTING TOGS

The women of Hillsdale, N. J., have demonstrated that they are ready to assume the responsibilities of citizenship without reserve. They have organized as a volunteer fire company and from the picture presented herewith it will be seen they make a very piquant appearance in their firefighting coats and tall rubber hats. They have been thoroughly trained and recently decided to enter the hose-laying contest in competition with men at a convention of New York and New Jersey volunteer firemen, to be held in Hillsdale.

Chinese Women Would Emancipate Sex

Mrs. L. She will, however, introduce the latest things in women's wear to her countrywomen, marking another step in the emancipation of the women of the Orient.

CREDIT IS DUE TO GRANDMOTHER PIONEER

She Did First Work in Americanization With Foreign Hired Girl

Have our grandmothers had credit for the Americanization work they did? In their day they did not hear so much about the unassimilated foreigner as we do today, and perhaps there was a good reason. The lure then was the land. The railroad companies, with lands to colonize, carried the immigrants through the cities without giving them a chance for a look-in. Their only resource against starvation in those early days was service as farm hands, or as maids (hired girls, we called them then), until they could get upon their feet financially and make good upon the raw land. Desperately as she needed help, many an American woman's heart has failed before the task of teaching an untutored peasant the niceties of decent living, but eventually the idea penetrated, the virus of a new ambition began to work, and within a few years the homes of women who had been field workers in Europe, living in dirt-floored hovels, were as neat and tidy as were their American neighbors, and the desire for a higher culture for their own sons and daughters took possession of them. It was a natural, not an artificial, process. That is the reason why the immigrants of yesterday are the substantial citizens of today, some of them filling high places in public life, as in contrast to the immigrants of today by whom the ranks of our workers in mines and factories are being recruited, immigrants who are not rooted in the soil as of old and in whose fermenting minds the evil germs of bolshevism and anarchy find fertile breeding places.

Social workers of today are declaring that the practice of true Americanism is the friendly hand of comradeship which will lead and lift the less advanced brother. Perhaps we need some better examples of American manhood and womanhood, too.

A woman can be mighty interesting to a man by not being his wife.

A HOME INVESTMENT THAT PAYS BIG RETURNS IN HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

Believing That a Life Close to Nature Is Best for Children, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Muhleman Forsake Glendale for a Ten-acre Fruit Ranch

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Muhleman are among the fortunates who have realized an ambition. For years they were residents of Glendale. They still have a host of friends and relatives here, and are devoted to the town in which Mr. Muhlman served as councilman, and where he has many business associates.

They made up their minds, however, that for their boy and girl they wanted a country environment which would bring them close to nature in all her products and processes, and where they could feel the children were safe from artificial conditions which breed restlessness, discontent and, sometimes, vice.

The opportunity to acquire an almost ideal home of ten acres near the village of Pacoima and between the San Fernando road and state highway, was theirs, and there they are living in great content. By private auto or bus Mr. Muhleman can reach his law office every day, and when he returns can leave the business world behind him and revel in the joys of a gentleman farmer, looking after the accomplishments of the Mexican man of all work, who runs the ranch under direction, and planning improvements for the future.

It is in an attractive land of big fields, outlined by rows of eucalypti, fields which rise into steep, rounded, rocky hills that suggest oil deposits and which, it is expected, will some day yield a crop of that sort.

The Muhleman house, which centers the plantation, is like the house the Bible tells about, built upon a huge, soil-covered rock which rises from the general level of the ranch on the north, about 50 feet, terraced to make shelves for plantings of grapes and thornless cactus. On the south the rock slopes gradually to the level of the mixed orchard of deciduous fruit in full bearing, where are peaches of various kinds, plums, pears, figs, apricots, apples, quinces, and, on the outer edge, pomegranates, lovely in foliage, flower and fruit. Then there are guavas, alligator pears and more cactus, great clumps of it, eight feet high and twelve feet through, almost every leaf of it studded with its peculiar fruit. There is the land devoted to garden and chicken runs. It is an ideal, home from the pleasant, roomy house to the uttermost plantings of corn and melons.

It is the theory of Mr. and Mrs. Muhleman that children thrive better in an environment which affords full freedom in the out-of-doors, an environment which makes it possible to have dogs and cats, pet chickens and rabbits as companions; where their noise will not annoy the neighbors, and where there is less occasion for the parental "don't," because interests are so varied on a farm that youngsters can be happy and innocently employed the day through and work off superfluous energy, an environment in which it is possible to get acquainted with the "various language" of Nature in her visible forms.

The Muhlemans argue that the leaders who have left their impress on their generation have, for the most part, come from the country, and, therefore, they should give their son and daughter the heritage of a country life.

"Does it pay?" said Mr. Muhleman, repeating the query of a questioner. "Yes," he replied, "big, but not, perhaps, in dollars and cents, though it does yield an income, but I need to harvest another crop to keep it going. In the more precious things of health, happiness, environment, it pays big, and neither of us has ever regretted the investment."

FOOD FOR GODS MAKES HAPPY HUSBANDS

True and Tried Recipes From People We All Know

More readers of the Glendale Daily Press have responded to the call for recipes tried and true which the son or father of the family indorse. When all is said and done, it is the men for whom the majority of women cook, and the men for whom the majority of women dress, whether they are conscious of it or not.

This is one of the recipes which Mrs. Frank Muhleman uses when she wishes to put her husband in a happy, contented frame of mind, with charity to all and malice toward none. It is called

FOOD FOR THE GODS

Though Mr. Muhleman does not consider himself in that class, he enjoys it nevertheless. The ingredients as given by Mrs. Muhleman are: Six eggs, beaten separately; two small cups of sugar; one pound of English walnuts, chopped; one-half pound of chopped dates; nine tablespoons of cracker crumbs; two tablespoons of baking powder.

Mix baking powder, egg yolks and sugar, add chopped nuts and dates, fold in the beaten whites, bake slowly about 45 minutes in shallow pans which will make the pudding about 1½ inches in thickness. Serve with plain or whipped cream. It should be sufficient for ten or twelve helpings.

FOOLPROOF DEVIL'S FOOD

This recipe by Mrs. N. D. Garver is vouched for by Mr. Garver, radio editor of the Press. He says it is never failing and that he knows, because he has made it himself. The ingredients as he compounds it, and directions for their blending, follow:

Two cups sugar, one-half cup shortening, one-half cup cocoa, one-half cup sour milk, one-half cup boiling water, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder, two and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon vanilla, one level teaspoon soda. Cream the shortening and sugar; add the eggs, mix soda with sour milk and add; mix cocoa with boiling water until smooth, and add; add boiling water; sift together flour, baking powder and salt and add; beat entire mixture until smooth and add vanilla; bake in greased cake pans. This will make two good sized layers or one large loaf.

Icing: One and one-half cups powdered sugar; one-half cup cocoa. Roll the powdered sugar and coca together with rolling pin until all lumps disappear; mix in a bowl with enough milk to make the right consistency, and spread.

THE BATTEAU NECK is becoming a little more rounded in line and for those who are tired of it entirely the square front with the straight-across back is new.

OSTRICH FANS that look as though they were dipped in gold are among the latest fans. They come in bright colors and the ends of the flues are gold-tipped.

FASHION NOTES OF GAY NEW YORK RECEIVED

Mrs. Pendroy Gives Interesting Hints About Milady's Garb

By GERTRUDE GIBBS

An interesting letter has just been received from Mrs. E. C. Pendroy, who is at present in New oYrk, on a buying tour for Pendroy's department store. After spending a week with Dame Fashion, she states that the decree that skirts must be worn longer, especially for evening wear, has apparently been accepted. The accepted length for daytime wear is from six to eight inches, but for social and evening affairs, they are from six inches to the length of dragging. Concerning other matters, she says:

"The waist seems to be a much traveled affair. The question is: Where has it not been? From the empire line, it has dropped to the hips. Here fashion decrees it must rest for a whole. How long, no one knows. The sleeves have developed a 'will to freedom' and do just as they please. They are long, short, or not at all.

"The first and most predominating color is black, then comes navy, followed by some beautiful fall shades, such as brown, fawn, fallow and martin, followed by 'koran,' a new dark-red shade. Almond green, rose, mauve, grey and buttercup yellow will also have their places on the color card. Only a few blues are shown, other than navy.

"Suits are lovely. The strictly tailored suit comes first, followed by the fur-trimmed and embroidered. There seems to be little change in the materials used for these garments—twill cord, tricotine, duvet de lain and marline, in shades of navy, black, brown, fallow and martin. The skirts are full only in the extreme garment, which, of course, will be on the flare line. The jackets are very long, which accentuates the long-line silhouette.

"Coats are of many styles. The wrappy cloaks for the dressy affair, which are made of beautiful materials, some lined throughout with fur, but for the general wear the staple coat is still with us in lengths from short to extreme long, made of marline, evora and gerona, yalama, arabelle and chantille.

"Hats! They are most fascinating because this season they are in such beautiful colors, and then, too, those lovely, soft, hangy sort of feathers are to be worn. They are made of peacock, stripped and made into graceful trimmings, and for the long lines we are to have the beautiful large hat, some with drooping brims, others irregular, shapes that give the chic, smart look to the plainest costume. Tatters' plush is playing a large role in the early showing, as is metallic cloth. Panne and silk velvet are also everlasting standbys. I have not shopped on the other necessary articles to complete milady's outfit, so I cannot give you any information along these lines."

APPURTENANCES FOR THE GUEST ROOM

In every guest room which does not have its lavatory and toilet there should always be provided a mug under the bed and a washbowl, tooth glass and well-filled pitcher, together with a slop jar. In many households the entire family resorts to the bathroom for the morning ablutions, leaving little opportunity for the embarrassed guest, who should be made independent.

CLEAN BROOMS WITH SOAPSUDS

A clean broom is considered one test of a good housekeeper. Aside from sanitary considerations the dipping of brooms in soapy water is said to toughen their fiber and prolong their life. Also a broom out of form can be pressed into shape when wet and then dried.

ECONOMIZE BY USING FORESIGHT

Some careful buyers find it economy to purchase two or more pairs of gloves or stockings that are exactly alike. They may not wear evenly and one can then match them up to secure a good pair.

ONE OF THE NEWEST hat trims is called the Reboux Swirl, taking its name from a Reboux model. Twists of velvet in contrasting colors with a twist of metalic cloth between the velvet swirls wrap about the crowns of large or medium shaped hats and finish in pom-pom effect at the side front.

BEADED VELVET BAGS for evening use with the beads put on in loop effect match the evening frock with which they are worn. Bags of this sort can easily be made at home. For the white evening gown, which is so popular at present, the white valvet bag looped with crystal beads is lovely.

An incident that Sir Ernest Shackleton always repeated with glee was the reply one of the Irish members made to him when Shackleton asked: "Can you imagine the enormous extent of those vast Arctic snow fields?"

"Yes," replied the Irish member. "I had the same sinsation the first toime I appeared in public wearing a dress shirt."

HOME NURS and HEAL

BORACIC SOL

"I'd like to know what is wrong with this stupid stuff," said the tall boy impatiently, coming into his mother's room. In his hand he held a bottle with a wide mouth. It contained what appeared to be a quantity of soft snow or slush, and he regarded it disgustedly.

"What is it dear?" asked his mother, putting down the sock she was darning and giving him her undivided attention, as she had always done since this tall son of hers had been a toddler in pinafores.

"It's supposed to be boracic acid solution. You know a bunch of the fellows are going up to Loon lake to camp, and they want me to go along, and I thought I'd get a few first aid things together in case any of the fellows—well you know how it is. "I mean that boracic solution should be saturated. A given amount of water should contain as much powder as it can hold in suspension. How much did you put in the bottle?"

"Oh, I just dumped in the package and filled it up with water."

"Boiled water?" asked Thomas' mother.

"No, sort of warm," the boy admitted.

Her mother held out her hand for the bottle.

"The correct way to make a saturated solution of boracic," she said, "is to measure two teaspoons of boracic acid, with a sterilized spoon, into a sterile, well-boiled enamel pitcher. Then pour a quart of boiling water over it. This should be covered with a sterile towel and set away to cool. Then a bottle with a wide neck should be boiled and cooled and the solution, which is sterile, poured into it through sterile muslin. The bottle should then be corked with cotton wool, and a bandage may be tied tightly over the top to keep the solution as sterile as possible. There is a bottle of fresh boracic solution in the bathroom cupboard. You may take it," she added with a smile.

BLOSSOM BEE SENDS SWEETS TO SECRETARIES

To Be Served At Meeting to Be Held on Next Saturday

Besides the responses which the chamber of commerce has received to its request for flowers to make things pleasant for the chamber of commerce secretaries who are to be entertained here Saturday, it has been presented with some essence of flowers which is likely to make a great appeal to the visitors and convince them that a residence in Glendale means "home, sweet home." The contribution came from the Blossom Bee Honey company, and, if the concentrated sweet makes the diners thirsty, they will be refreshed with the Sierra products of the Francis J. W. Henry company, which have also been contributed.

GRAINS FROM ALGERIA

The success of Mariout barley in California, particularly in the San Joaquin Valley and Southern California, has led to further search for drouth-resistant varieties in the Sahara desert region from where Mariout originally came. The latest importations by the University of California experiment station are three barleys from the Oasis Sahara in Algeria and were collected from the native Bedouin farmers by Dr. Trabut, director of the botanical service of Algeria. In sending them to G. W. Hendry, assistant professor of agronomy, University of California, Dr. Trabut stated that they are drouth-resistant and grow in an extremely hot region with sparce rainfall.

Two of the varieties resemble Mariout in appearance of seed and the third is of the Oregon Mariout type, but they were collected 2000 miles from Mariout lake region in Egypt and are probably different varieties.

All of the varieties will be grown at the University of California farm at Davis and in Washington, D. C., by the United States department of agriculture next season. In return the University of California is sending the Algerian government seed of several of its newest crop varieties.

WOMEN IN POULTRY COURSES

Women in increasing numbers are enrolling for the poultry short course which is held each year at the University of California farm at Davis. Poultry farming represents probably fewer difficulties to women than any other branch of agriculture and the short course provides the training and instruction necessary to practical success. One of the leading poultry keepers of Niles is a woman graduate of the course of 1918 and a woman student of the 1920 course has made not less than $1200 in eight months.

The poultry short course for 1922 will begin at the University of California farm on October 2 and will cover a period of six weeks, as usual. Information regarding the course may be obtained by writing to the College of Agriculture at Berkeley or to the branch of the College of Agriculture at Davis.

"Will ye stay to tea?" asked Mrs. Murphy of the caller whom she wished would depart.

"No, thank you," was the answer, "I must be home to look after John."

"Ah, sure, ye mustn't neglect him," said Mrs. Murphy, relieved. "I think I will stay though; I hear the kettle singing," was the unexpected reply.

"Oh, don't take any notice of that!" said Mrs. Murphy, scornfully. "It sings for hours before it boils!"

ARE THESE AMERICA'S TWELVE GREATEST WOMEN?

A Chilean delegate to the Pan-American conference asked for a list of the twelve greatest American women, so she might write their histories as an example to the women of Chile. Mrs. Rudolph Blankenberg, widow of the late mayor of Philadelphia, was asked by the National League of Women Voters to name the candidates. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt was selected by Mrs. Blankenberg to head the list. The others she picked are: Mrs. Thomas Winter, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs; Mrs. Maud Wood Park, head of the League of Women Voters; Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army; Mrs. M. Carey Thomas, retiring president of Bryn Mawr college; Miss Jane Addams, head of Hull House, in Chicago, social worker and lecturer; Miss Anne Morgan, for her work of reconstruction in France; Mrs. Harriett Taylor Upton, vice-chairman of the Republican national committee; Mrs. Barclay Warburton of Philadelphia and New York; Mrs. George Horace Lorimer, wife of the editor of the Saturday Evening Post; Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, wife of the secretary of state, and Mrs. Medill McCormick of Chicago.

CAMPING OUTFIT FOR DAYS IN THE OPEN COUNTRY WHEN YOU WANT TO BE FREE

Vacation Wardrobe Is Worth Considering in Terms of Comfort and Appearance; What You Should Take Along for Service

Just now everyone is looking forward to the summer vacation and pondering as to what sort of a wardrobe will be required.

The vacation outfit is one that is well worth pondering over, as many a vacation has been ruined by the lack of proper clothing.

If you are planning on a camping trip your clothing needs are easily outlined. If the camp is to be located in a nearby camp colony, you will probably need nothing new. Simple gingham frocks, separate skirts with slip-on sweaters and in fact any clothes that you no longer care about will do duty in a camp of this sort. Camp life is not a dressy one.

If, however, you plan on a real camping trip where you are to "rought it" in the open, the first thing to decide is what month you intend to take for the trip, for there is often a vast difference between the temperature of August and September in the woods. For the woman who plans on the August outing trip I shall give a list of garments which should adequately cover a vacation of two or three weeks.

One pair of khaki bloomers.
One khaki midy blouse.
One pair khaki knickerbockers.
One cotton khaki shirt.
One pair of stout shoes.
One pair rubber soled canvas shoes.
Three suits of cotton crepe undergarments.
Five pairs cotton hose.

The above outfit may be varied for morning wear about camp by a pair of overalls worn over a short sleeved shirt. While overalls are not as trim as knickers, they are extremely cool and easy to bend about in.

One thing that the camper must bear in mind is that a great deal of the success of the trip depends upon being properly shod. Stout low-heeled shoes and cotton or woolen hose are a necessity. A silk stocking would last about one day in the woods. Boy Scout shoes are ideal for rough wear, although they might be too heavy for the tenderfoot.

On a camping trip one should carry as few clothes as possible. An average sized suitcase should be ample for one's needs.

The September and October camper will find the evenings in the open rather chilly and the weather man doesn't always predict dry weather. She might find the suggestion in the following list helpful:

One woolen sweater.
One slicker.
One khaki knickerbocker suit.
One flannel shirt.
One cotton shirt.
One pair khaki leggins.
One pair heavy shoes.
One pair rubber soled canvas shoes.
Three pair cotton hose.
Two pair woolen hose.
Three suits cotton crepe underwear.

The navy peajacket which may be found in the army supply stores or the mackinaw make good top coats for the early fall trip. The woman who is unused to roughing it may find solacs in the slip-on dress of khaki material, for she may occasionally feel the call of the skirt. A khaki dress of this sort can be cut to form a fringe at the hem and on the sleeves.

The soft crowned khaki-colored hat with the turned-up brim goes nicely with the outing suit as the brim may be turned down to ward off the sun.

Lately the khaki bandana, figured in brown and red, has found favor with automobile tourists, as it holds the hair in place besides being attractive when wrapped about the head and tied in a loose-end knot.

If possible it is a good thing to go without corsets on a camping trip and thus give the body muscle a vacation too. If one is used to corsets, the first day or so without them will be difficult, but at the vacation's end there will be a great benefit to the health.

One cannot exercise as one must when camping without using muscles that have been practically dormant in city life and it is a fine thing to give these muscles real freedom of action once in a while.

PICNICS AND PLAIN MEALS

The Simple Life Seems to Call for Simple Food

Now that the picnic season is at its height, the editor of this department would be glad to have suggestions for picnic viands for either the long or the short haul, i. e., for the auto tour or the brief outing of a few hours.

Appetite waits on the meal served in the open air, particularly if there has been exercise in preparing it, and so the viands that would be rejected at home are acceptable. How much more acceptable, then, is a real meal? For that reason the picnic where the potatoes and corn can be roasted in the ashes, the bacon fried in a camp skillet, or the steak broiled over wood coals, is a feast to be remembered. The simple life seems to call for simple food, with sweets in the discard.

SAVING ICE IN HOT WEATHER

When the weather is hot and the ice man comes only every other day the problem of making the ice last is not only a matter of dollars and cents, but of comfort. If the refrigerator door has shrunk with age and does not fit closely when shut, a strip of leather or felt can sometimes be tacked on to make all tight and shut out the warm air.

Also, when the refrigerator is in a warm place a cloth, preferably a flannel kept wet and placed over the box, will cause enough evaporation to keep the refrigerator cool and materially reduce the waste of ice.

12-Year-Old Girl Beats Old Sailormen

Miss Ruth Pearl, a little 12-year-old girl, surprised old sea dogs of the Rockaway Park Yacht club by winning first place in the Sea Mews class in the regatta of that organization. She sailed her craft with amazing skill in the fresh breeze.

WHERE SKILFULL NEEDLEWOMAN SCORES

Has Advantage of Male Competitor in Clothing Self

The ease with which women make their own dresses is not so surprising after all, when one considers the helps to be had on every hand. Of course, there are patterns and full directions for putting them together, but a pattern is not all. Many a would-be dressmaker who lacks training is in the position of the woman who was brought up short by a recipe which ended with the instruction: "Use your own judgment." "How am I to use it," she wailed, "when I haven't any?"

Almost every good sized town now boasts a dressmaking school, and in towns like Glendale there is a fine department in the high school which teaches the whole process, from cutting to the last item of the making. If day classes are not available there are evening courses. Last year in this city there was a long waiting list in millinery and dressmaking at the night school, but with more funds available this year it is hoped all applicants can be accommodated. Miss Hobush, head of the department, has been in Paris most of the summer studying the trend of styles and the designing of costumes, and will probably have a lot of interesting models to display.

This is where women score and why women workers on small salaries are often able to make a very good appearance. The skilful needle has been at work. How often do we find a man who could make for himself even a pair of overalls?

ONE-PIECE AND THREE-PIECE GARMENTS

Homespun Suits Include Trousers As Well As Coat and Skirt

The one-piece dress is enjoying undiminished popularity as a summer garment, but the waist is longer than of yore. It is featured by panels and cascade draperies that occasionally descend below the hem to suggest added length.

In suits the three-piece dress is having some vogue, the three pieces being composed of coat, skirt and trousers of the same. For sport use in vacation outings these are very practical and pretty. The writer saw them in considerable variety in the stores in San Francisco, where it is a religion to go somewhere for the week-end.

SOME GINGER ALE SUMMER DRINKS

Glendale's Product Adds Spice and Insipid Acid Refreshment

Glendale's ginger ale products are so good that they call for no improvement, but variety is the spice of life and variety is what we call for when days are hot and all foods and drinks pall.

Some agreeable combinations have been worked out, as for instance, the combining of ginger ale and grape juice (which is insipid alone) sweetened to taste, poured over cracked ice and decorated with slices of orange or lemon.

A ginger ale phosphate is made by taking equal parts of ginger ale and water and to each two cups of the mixture adding 3 tablespoonfuls of acid phosphate and three of sugar.

WEAR AND TEAR ON FURNITURE

In studying ways of saving wear and tear on furniture when one has a houseful of romping children it is always well to consider which is the most precious, the comfort of the thoughtless children or the welfare of the furniture.

It is well, however, to keep oil, varnish and paint handy for small repairs instead of letting articles go until they become positively battered.

Rungs of chairs in which small children sit come in for hard usage and can be protected by fabric covers, embroidered for decoration, which can be washed. Footstools are also a resource, but a doubtful one, as they are so often a stumbling block.

Mrs. E. J. Stanton of 243 South Vine street, Burbank, underwent a major operation Thursday morning at the Glendale hospital and sanitarium.

Some towns spend more time in sounding their slogans than in cleaning their streets.

JELLY-MAKING IN WINTER

Now is the jelly-making season and sometimes the work crowds the busy housewife when she feels the least like doing it. When that happens and there is fruit which must be saved or when a combination with other fruits is desired, the fruit juice can be canned without sugar and made into jelly at any later and more convenient date. An expert jelly maker of the writer's acquaintance requently adopted this plan and delighted her friends with freshly made jelly in the winter time.

THE LATST WORD in handker chiefs is to have the day of the week embroidered in one corner. Since the summer "debby" is often overcome with engagements, this having the day of the week at one's fingertips gives one a chance to say. "Oh, Ferdie, I forgot this was Friday." Woes to the girl who carries her Wednesday handky on Tuesday.

CHARLES C. MOORE REPLIES TO HIRAM JOHNSON

Declares "He Must Be in Need of An Occulist"

Charles C. Moore, candidate for the republican nomination for United States senator, when shown the declaration issued by Hiram Johnson, on his arrival in San Francisco, announcing that he was back here to fight the same old gang that had fought him in 1910, issued this statement:

"Hiram Johnson must be in need of the services of an oculist, when he makes the declaration that he is back here to fight the same old gang who fought him in 1910, for a careful analysis of the list of those who are conducting his campaign shows that many of the politicians who fought him in 1910 are now vociferously supporting him. If he attempted to fight the old gang who formerly opposed him, he would have to begin immediately on his own campaign committee and prominent supporters, and when he got through discarding members of the old gang, he would not have much of a committee left.

"The republican voters of California should examine the list which follows and they will see that leaders of the old Southern Pacific machine are now in the Johnson camp. They will see the extent to which job holders are identified with his campaign and that, unless the republican voters arise and smash this machine, the republican party in the state of California will come under the control of Hearst and Johnson.

"First, take the newspapers that are now supporting Johnson; Hearst's San Francisco Examiner, the San Francisco Call, owned by Hearst; the Los Angeles Examiner, the Los Angeles Herald, also owned by Hearst; the San Francisco Chronicle, owned by Mike de Young; the San Bernardino Sun, edited by R. C. Harbison; all of whom formerly accused Johnson of every crime in the political vocabulary.

"Then, read these names of his campaign committee:

"Frank P. Flint, former United States senator, elected to office by the Southern Pacific machine, chairman of Johnson's committee in Southern California.

"Frank P. Doherty, paid lobbyist in the last legislature for the railroads, campaign manager in Southern California.

"Leo V. Youngworth, formerly United States marshal under the Southern Pacific regime, and the most active machine politician in Southern California.

"Al McCabe, Johnson's political manager, one-time secretary of the democratic state central committee, also secretary of Hearst's short-lived Independence league, Johnson's private secretary when he was governor, and appointed by him as state insurance commissioner, general manager of Johnson's campaign in California.

"Sheriff Tom Finn, boss of San Francisco's waterfront machine, chairman of Johnson's San Francisco campaign committee.

"John D. Nagle, Finn's chief deputy, San Francisco headquarters manager.

"Harry Encell, attorney for state board of pharmacy, Johnson's campaign manager.

"Mike Kelly, Alameda county boss, superintendent of the mint in San Francisco.

"John Francis Neylan, appointed chairman of the state board of control by Johnson, now publisher of Hearst's San Francisco Call.

"John T. Williams, former attorney for Sheriff Finn, and now United States district attorney in San Francisco.

"Katherine Phillips Edson, salaried executive commissioner of the state industrial welfare board.

"Meyer Lissner, member of the United States shipping board, appointed on the recommendation of Johnson.

"Louis Lissner, son of above, deputy United States attorney at Los Angeles, appointed on recommendation of Johnson.

"Mabel Walker Willebrand, assistant United States attorney general.

"Louis Schwaebe, collector of the port of Los Angeles, appointed on Johnson's recommendation.

"Joe Burke, United States district attorney for Southern California, also appointed on recommendation of Johnson.

John P. McLaughlin, collector of internal revenue for the northern district of California, formerly held position of labor commissioner under Johnson.

"Rex Goodcell, collector of internal revenue for the southern district.

"H. L. Carnaham, formerly state corporation commissioner, appointed by Johnson.

"R. M. Armstrong, attorney for Sheriff Finn.

"Mark Herron, assistant United States district attorney.

"Lawrence J. Flaherty, surveyor of customs.

"H. F. Risbrough, deputy for insurance commissioner McCabe.

"Lon Butler, appointed motor vehicle department by Johnson, when governor.

"Aiding these office holders, of course, are their swarm of deputies and assistants.

"The republican voters of this state can ask themselves, Who has changed? Have these insistene office holders joined Johnson in the fight on the old gang, and would any of them be hypocritical enough to claim that they are fighting to down the political machine? Is not the real answer than Johnson has changed, and that his denunciation of the old gang is merely empty sound and pure, unadulterated buncombe?

"This summary shows his chief supporters and newspapers, and there is but one conclusion, an attempt on the part of Johnson to build up a great personal political machine, and aided by it and the Hearst newspapers to gain control of the republican party for the benefit of himself and Hearst."

EDITORIALS By the PEOPLE

Glendale, July 27, 1922.

Editor, Glendale Daily Press,

Dear Sir:—In your issue of July 6th, you make reference to certain criticism on our traffic situation in Glendale. You no doubt refer to the many complaints of residents and non-residents of the over-zealous traffic officers who either deliberately or ignorantly class all violators of the traffic ordinances as criminals, when the party may have technically broken some ordinance that had never been enforced.

No better illustration can be offered than the one I am going to relate. For many weeks or months, a small strip of pavement lying just south of San Fernando road on Brand boulevard has been closed to motorists at different times during the improvements that have been made at this point. There was an arrow directing traffic to the other side of the Pacific Electric track, but, notwithstanding this, the road on many occasions was closed, and it was, therefore, compulsory to continue on to the intersection of Brand and San Fernando before making the right hand turn. It seems that this has recently been completed, and a long string of innocent citizens, including myself, were yesterday evening halted by one traffic officer named Collins, who, after inquiring "what neck of the woods we hailed from," were presented with a pass entitling us to a seat in Judge Lowe's court on Friday morning, for driving on the wrong side of the street.

I do not believe any notice has been given through the press of Glendale warning motorists that any such action was contemplated, and it would appear that the authorities waited for just such an opportunity to trap the long list that stood in line like a bunch of sheep waiting for the slaughter.

As for myself, I am able to pay the penalty, whatever that may be, but there are many who, no doubt, are not in a position to dig down in their pockets for a chunk of hard-earned money to fatten the city treasury for such unfair treatment.

The city council, the trial judge and the traffic officers are servants of the people, put there and paid for by the people to see that the laws are properly enforced, but they usurp the rights of law-abiding citizens when they sanction or permit such tactics.

While this man Collins was handing out yellow tags, a man on the other side of the road flew by at not less than 35 miles an hour, but the picking was too good where he was, and I have no doubt he does not know how fast he was travelling or whether he passed at all. This same officer invested himself with authority to demand that I turn around in the middle of the road and proceed on my journey. He tags a citizen for the simplest technicality, and, at the same time, compels him to break another ordinance which carried with it a much greater danger.

I am now, and always will be, 100 per cent in favor of the courts giving the sentence allowed under the law to the reckless driver who drives along our highways without regard to life or limb, but why should the respectable, law-abiding citizen be placed in the same category and compelled to part with the earnings that he needs for his family and home. No good American will stand for such laws, and if the men who make such freak laws will not remedy this condition they should be thrown out of office and men placed there who will see that citizens are treated as human individuals and not as boneheads.

Yours truly,
W. S. RATTRAY.

BET-LESS TRACK IS PLANNED FOR CALIFORNIA

Backers of Tanforan to to Exclude Bookies and Mouth Bets

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—A racing season to compare in quality with any anywhere in the country, without betting of any kind.

That is the proposition which a group of well-known racing millionaires of California will attempt to put over at Tanforan track, a few miles out of San Francisco.

The old Tanforan track, famed in the days before betting was legislated out of existence in California in 1911, is being reconstructed by the Pacific Coast Jockey club, organized by a group of millionaires. Construction is already under way, and it has been announced that everything will be in readiness for a big Thanksgiving day opening.

Those interested are A. B. Spreckles, president; Rudolph Spreckles, vice president; Herbert Fleishacker, treasurer; Howard Spreckles, secretary; A. K. Macomber, C. K. G. Billings, Frank J. Kelly, and Thomas Fortune Ryan, the New York capitalist and sportsman, directors.

Colonel D. C. Jackling is also interested in the venture, but recently resigned from active work because of other business. His place was filled by Ryan.

The club has announced that neither handbooks, oral betting, nor pari-mutuels will be tolerated at the track, and the track officials will cooperate with the police to bar all bookies and gamblers from entering the stands.

The Spreckles brothers are well known racing enthusiasts and breeders, as is Col. Jackling. Ryan is also a noted breeder, and has an extensive establishment in Nelson county, Virginia—the "Oak Ridge Stable."

The imported stallion, Sea King, is at the head of Ryan's stable. Ryan also recently purchased the two-year-olds Runelise and Runetta from A. B. Spreckles, and it is likely that they will be seen under his colors at Tanforan this fall. Runelise is a full sister to Morvich.

At the same time, however, petitions are being circulated thruout California in hope of getting the voters on the initiative ballot this November. The Pacific Coast Jockey club has announced that it is connected in no way with this movement, and is confident that the highest class racing in the country can be conducted without betting.

There is apparently great interest among the best horsemen in the country in the venture and applications for stalls have been received from some of the biggest breeders. A contract was recently let for the construction of 500 stalls. An excellent grandstand is under construction and plans call for landscape gardening, which, it is said, will make the track one of the show places of California.

Although betting will be barred at the track, bettors are reported to be looking forward to ample opportunities in San Francisco, where the usual casual police raids have failed to make much headway against betting on New Orleans, Tijuana, Kentucky or eastern results.

GOOD YIELD OF BURT OATS

Burt oats planted on 3.12 acres at the University of California farm at Davis yielded at the rate of 29.2 sacks of 88 pounds per sack, or 2570 pounds of thrashed grain per acre. This is at the rate of 80 bushels per acre. Oats as a rule require a long growing season with cool weather and plenty of moisture. The coast regions of the state can grow oats quite successfully, but in the interior valleys, oats often do not fill sufficiently to make good grain since the weather becomes hot and the soil dried out before ordinary varieties normally mature.

Burt oats mature early, normally soon after the first of June. It therefore escapes the hot, dry weather so injurious to filling. It is a gray oat with a stiff straw, ranging in height from three feet to a little over five feet. This variety of oats is recommended by the University of California experiment station for planting in the interior valleys for grain production.

SMALLPOX IS TRAVELING DISEASE

Gives World Timely Warning of Arrival; Must Be Obeyed

Like a volcano which rumbles and smokes long before it explodes, smallpox gives the world a timely warning. Within the last five years, local epidemics have occurred in Scotland, Germany, France, Spain, Australia, Burmah, the Philippines, Mexico, Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Costa Rica, Santo Domingo, Canada, and in several of our own states, in one of which an epidemic exists at present. There is evidence in these outbreaks to indicate that smallpox is becoming more virulent as well as more common. The mortality rate in some instances has been as high as 40 per cent. The number of cases in 1921 in 93 American cities was reported by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company to be 138 per cent greater than in 1920, and the number of deaths in proportion to the number of cases, six times greater. A contagious disease so virulent cannot be taken lightly, however restricted the area in which it prevails.

The history of the disease in the prevaccination epoch shows that long periods of quiescence are followed by virulent epidemics. The intervals are characterized by less virulent, sporadic cases, or by a mild type of the disease, such as has prevailed in the United States for about 20 years. Susceptible material gradually accumulates during these years, chiefly from the large number of children that grow up unvaccinated. By processes as yet not well understood, the virulence of the disease increases again, outbreaks become epidemics, and smallpox once more stalks abroad as "Captain of the Men of Death." In the eighteenth century, only one person in 25 in England escaped the disease. It was constantly present in London, where the deaths at times numbered from 3000 to 15,000 yearly. In the same century, Boston had seven severe epidemics. With a population in 1721 of 11,000, Boston had more than 6000 cases of smallpox and 850 deaths, a mortality rate of 77 per thousand. To understand what that rate means, one should compare the epidemic of influenza of 1918, which caused only eight deaths per thousand, about an eighth or a ninth of Boston's mortality rate from smallpox in 1721. In recent years, few large cities have suffered more than Philadelphia, where, within the 33 years ending in 1904, three epidemics occurred, with more than 30,000 cases and 7600 deaths. In this day of rapid intercommunication, it is well to recall that smallpox was introduced into Montreal in 1885 by an unvaccinated Pullman car porter, causing 15,000 cases and 3164 deaths.

Indifference to the disease and prejudice against the chief means of prevention make the present situation more serious. A long period of comparative immunity has made people careless regarding vaccination; and some physicians have become careless and have failed to urge vaccination on their patients. To make matters worse, a vicious propaganda has misled many people to oppose vaccination openly. Thus the percentage of the population that is unprotected has grown, and, unless conditions in this regard improve, outbreaks of smallpox may be expected. To encourage vaccination at this particular time, is to do a public service.

LIVE CANNER IS VISITOR TO CITY

D. R. Smith of Lindsey, Comes in Search of Factory Location

D. R. Smith of Lindsay, California, was a caller at the chamber of commerce Thursday, where he communicated a desire to locate a olive canning factory in this city. He was given a ride around the town in the official car, and was very much pleased with what he saw. He is now negotiating with one of the real estate companies for the purchase of an acre on which to build his factory. He has been in his present line of business for many years. He comes to Glendale because of its superior climatic conditions and because of the wholesale business he has established in Los Angeles. He is said to be a thorough business man who is alive to the demands of the times and who will be a welcome addition to the business circles in Glendale.

"STEP ON IT" AT GLENDALE

Hundreds of fans have written Hoot Gibson at Universal City ask him the same question! Why does he switch his gun from one hand to the other, shooting one time left-handed and another the right-handed? The star of "Step On It," Universal's special attraction, coming to the Glendale theatre today, has this habit. Right in the middle of a scene his gun will pop over from his right hand to his left, then back.

"I have never been able to get over that habit since I've used a gun," Gibson says. "It's just one of those things done a few times accidentally and then forever as a habit."

MRS. BRANDSTATER IS HOMESICK

Dr. C. A. Brandstater reports that his wife and family, who are visiting relatives of Mrs. Brandstater at Clyde, Ohio, and in Toledo, are homesick for California. Mrs. Brandstater was so homesick to see her old home that he gave her instructions to stay as long as she wanted, even if it took a year. The letters he has received incline him to expect her much sooner than that. She writes that business conditions are much more depressed there than here and there are a great many "For Sale" signs to be seen. She is finding the weather very uncomfortable after the California variety.

General Construction Co. Commissions Charlton & Brainard

Architects Charlton & Brainard are just completing a plan for a model bungalow which they were commissioned to make for the General Construction company of 249 North Brand, in which will be found all the up-to-date features in the way of built-in conveniences such as are on display at the exposition of building materials to be seen on the second floor of the Central building. The plan calls for a building containing 1,000 square feet of floor surface divided into a large combined living and dining room, kitchen, bedroom, breakfast nook, bathroom, hall and porches. The built-in features in the way of disappearing beds and other built-in conveniences, will afford accommodations for a family of seven, Mr. Charlton declares, and at figures approximating the cost of such a house several years ago before the great increase in the cost of building.

HAWAII IS 'OFF' CONGRESS NOW

Got No Federal Aid and Just Won't Play Any More

HONOLULU, T. H., July 28.—While the Democrats, in preparation for the coming congressional campaign, are compiling all possible arguments and facts to show that the present U. S. congress is the rottenest ever, it may behoove them to come to Hawaii.

For Hawaii is "off" congress. Anything bad you want to say about congress will get the cheer in Honolulu.

The reason is that Honolulu has been completely ignored in most federal aid bills, although congress was careful enough to include her in the prohibition amendment.

The latest slight suffered by the "Crossroads of the Pacific" is exclusion from the Sheppard-Towner maternity aid bill.

Despite all that Hawaiian delegates and lobbyists could do, the gentlemen in congress winked an eye, and cut down the appropriation to a point where it left no aid for mothers in the islands—congress taking it for granted that Hawaii is so far away that she can't kick up much fuss.

The islands have also been left out of a number of other important appropriation bills during the last few years. She was not included in the teachers' pensions appropriations and similar measures.

Plans are under way to form a strong Hawaiian lobby at Washington, and to spend some money in publicity in the states in order to bring to the attention of the people of the United States the sort of treatment Hawaii is getting at the hands of the nation's legislators.

Meanwhile—anything mean you want to say about congress goes.

SIX TO HANG IN OREGON

Murderers Fail There to "Beat the Case"

SALEM, Ore., July 28.—Six men await the noose in Oregon. Until July 7 there were eight. On that morning Elvie D. Kirby and John Rathie, convicted murderers of Sheriff Til Taylor of Pendleton, went to the gallows.

Abe Evans' case is on appeal. He was convicted of the murder of James Doran in eastern Oregon.

Dr. Richard M. Brumfield, Roseburg dentist, whose case is also on appeal, was convicted of the murder of Dennis Russell, a recluse.

George Howard of Malheur county is awaiting sentence. From the jury's verdict in the case, this sentence will be death.

Husted Walters' case is now being reargued in the state supreme court. He was convicted of the murder of Patrolman Palmer in Portland.

Russell Hecker, youthful murderer, convicted at Oregon City recently for the murder of Frank Bower near Portland April 17, will hang in September unless efforts to save him are unsuccessful.

Dan Casey, whose alleged partner in the murder of Railroad Agent Buck Phillips, George Burns, was acquitted after two judges had disagreed, is being held in Multnomah county jail. His sentence was death.

Twenty-seven men have been hanged within the walls of the state prison at Salem since 1903, prior to which time executions were held in the yards of jails in the county where crime was committed and the trial and sentence occurred.

Between 1903 and 1904, when capital punishment was abolished in Oregon temporarily by the slim majorit yof 157 votes, 24 men were hanged and 37 convicted of murder and sentenced to hang. The sentences of 12 of the 37 were commuted to life imprisonment, and one condemned man was granted a new trial and liberated.

Capital punishment in Oregon was abrogated only six years. On November 21, 1919, J. N. Burgess and George E. Perringer of Pendleton were murdered by holdup men at the Claremont tavern near here. The incident raised such a storm of protest that in May, 1920, the people of the state restored the supreme penalty by more than 35,000 majority.

Meil Hart, convicted with Rathie and Kirby of murdering Sheriff Taylor, was the first murderer to hang under the restored law. Rathie and Kirby were the next victims.

BEREAN CLASS IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Louise M. Pollard, of 117 South Isabel street, was hostess to the members of the Berean Bible class of the First Baptist church on Thursday afternoon. There were 12 members present.

It is the custom of the Baptist church to, every summer, prepare a Christmas tree for the missionaries on foreign fields and their schools. Each class or organization in the church is working hard to make gifts for this tree, and the Berean class yesterday sewed on quilts. Late in the summer, the tree is filled at the church and all are invited to come and see it before it is shipped away. The reason for preparing it so early is so that the presents will arrive at their destination in time for Christmas. Mrs. J. F. Moody is president of the class.

LAGOON LUMBER CO. GIVES PUBLIC ITS REDWOODS

Means Permanent Preservation of Timber Along Highway

Announcement was made today by J. D. Grant, chairman of the board of directors of the Save the Redwoods league, that the Lagoon Lumber company, one of the large owners of redwood timber in Humboldt county, had offered to donate to the public the redwood timber standing on the right of way for the California state highway recently acquired by the county. This will mean permanent preservation of a strip of timber along the highway where it passes through the holdings of the company.

Expressions of appreciation have been sent by the Save the Redwoods league to H. W. Cole, manager of the Lagoon Lumber company at Bulwinkle, through whom the gift was made. This action on the part of the company is significant in the save the redwoods movement, because it represents the interest of the lumbermen in the movement to save the redwoods and assures the preservation for all time of one of the most beautiful stretches of highway in the world.

When the highway rights of way for the new state highway through Humboldt county were secured a short time ago, the owners of the land reserved the timber. Through the effort of the citizens of Humboldt county and of the Save the Redwoods league, the supervisors of Humboldt county were induced to endeavor to secure this timber in order to preserve the beauty of the highway. The action of the Lagoon Lumber company comes as a result of this effort.

Commenting upon the action of the Lagoon Lumber company, Mr. J. D. Grant of the Save the Redwoods league said: "The public-spirited act on the part of this company means a great deal to the state of California and to the citizens of the counties through which this scenic route runs. Some of the finest of the redwoods are found in the stretch of several miles of highway which runs along the shore of the Big Lagoon. This is one of the most wonderful scenic trips in America and in future years more and more travelers from all parts of the world will visit it. It will be nothing short of disastrous for the redwoods along this hikhway to be cut and the only way to assure their permanent preservation is to vest their title in the state."

We are particularly glad of the co-operation of the lumber interests in the work of the Save the Redwoods league. We have continually endeavored to secure their complete co-operation and have found that they are anxious to help save representative areas of these most beautiful and oldest of trees. Besides the Lagoon Lumber company, the Hammond Lumber company and Standish & Hickey Lumber company have made gifts of timber to the state of California. Others, we are confident, will join in supporting us in this movement.

MILLION DOLLAR EXPOSITION AT VENTURA

Thoroughbred Show to Be Staged on County Fair Program

Evidencing the fact that the fancy-gaited saddle horse and the high-stepping harness thoroughbred are not back numbers, the committee in charge of the program of the Ventura County Fair, to be held at Seaside park, Ventura, October 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, is giving Old Dobbin's more stylish brothers a conspicuous place on the card of events in connection with the million dollar exposition. The horse show and the running and harness races are to be big features of the 1922 Ventura Fair and Santa Barbara, the home of many of the finest stables in the Southwest, is co-operating to make the events in which horses appear, the greatest program of all times. Besides the stylish horse show and the fast races of all kinds, a real old west rodeo will be staged under the able direction of "Bob" Anderson, dean of western horsemen. Entries for this latter event are pouring in from all quarters, and those in attendance at the fair this year can well anticipate some hard and fast competition among the buckaroos of this section.

T. D. & L. PUTS BIG ATTRACTIONS ON BILL

"Nanook of the North," the big Pathe feature, is the first motion picture (6000 feet in length) photographed wholly in the Arctic regions.

"Nanook of the North" is the first motion picture depicting the actual life of the Eskimo—being a truthful and vivid story of Father and Mother Eskimo and all the little Eskimos at home. The picture was made by Robert J. Flaherty, engineer and explorer of Sir William MacKenzie's expeditions in the barren lands of the far north east coast of the Hudson Bay—as described by him in the published records of the American Geographical society.

There is also the Lloyd comedy, "I Do."

In addition to the pictures there will be the presentation of the Niel Brown-Rex Taylor vaudeville act "The Price of a Kiss," with cast of eight notable players. All in all it's "some show." Plan to go early.

With the Saturday showing of "Nanook of the North" there will be a change in the special vaudeville act to be given in addition to the picture. A comedy sketch entitled "Appearances," starring Helen Raymond, the noted actress, will be the added attraction for Saturday night only. See Saturday's newspapers for further announcement of this highly commented upon special production.

GOV. STEPHENS' RECORD IN OFFICE

Most Economically Managed Big Business in the State

SACRAMENTO, July 28.—The government of the state of California is the most economically managed big business within the state; and has materially contributed, by its constructive policy of development during a period of national and world depression. to keeping California the one white spot of prosperity on the national map.

The state appropriations passed by the last legislature amount to $44,101,142 a year, or $88,202,283 for the two-year period, July 1, 1921, to June 30, 1923. (The statement misused by opponents of the administration that the amount is $91,000,000 is erroneous, and due to counting twice a certain appropriation of $3,000,000 to the university.)

Over one-half (51.2 per cent) of the total state appropriations is for education, namely $22,594,000 a year; and about two-thirds of this amount, or $15,679,000, is not administered by the state at all, but is merely collected by the state and apportioned to the counties to be administered by their local school district boards. Of this amount, moreover, $7,044,000 was added last year by direct vote of the people at the election of 1920.

Deducting the above collection of $15,679,000 from the annual appropriation of $44,101,142 leaves a net expenditure by the state administration of $28,422,142 a year, that is, if all of the legislature's appropriations had been actually spent.

But the state board of control adopted a policy of an unbudgeted reserve, holding the expenditures of all departments in check, and by this policy reduced the expenditures by over $2,500,000 from the legislature's appropriations, bringing the actual net expenditures for state purposes down to less than $26,000,000.

This is a relatively small amount of money to spend on state development as is evident by a comparison with the expenditures made for county purposes. The taxes in the county of Los Angeles for general county, special district and school purposes for the last fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, amounted to $29,503,745. In addition to that the taxes of the municipalities of the city of Los Angeles, Pasadena, Long Beach, Santa Monica, Whittier and Pomona and some smaller towns within Los Angeles county amounted to $13,622,882, making a total of $43,136,627 expended by the county of Los Angeles and its municipalities in one year.

During the four-year period from July 1, 1917, to June 30, 1921, all of the following counties increased their expenditures more proportionately than the increase in state expenditures, namely: San Diego, Sacramento, Santa Clara, San Bernardino, Contra Costa, Alameda, San Joaquin, Los Angeles, Kern, Tulare, Orange and Fresno. Some of the counties have increased their per capita expenditures in the past four years two, three, four and five times as much as the per capita increase of state expenses.

A comparison of the increased operating costs of business with state government shows that during the four-year period, when the state expenses increased by a total of 50.13 per cent, the following public service corporations increased by much greater proportions, namely:

Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co., 57.11 per cent.

Los Angeles Railway corporation, 61.26 per cent.

Southern Pacific Railway corporation, 63.65 per cent.

Western Pacific Railway company, 66.58 per cent.

Western Union Telegraph company, 69.18 per cent.

Northwestern Pacific Railway company, 75.69 per cent.

Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway company, 75.22 per cent.

Pacific Gas & Electric company, 91.76 per cent.

Pacific Electric Railway company, 91.75 per cent.

Great Western Power company, 105.64 per cent.

Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railway company, 108.64 per cent.

Southern California Edison Co., 124.52 per cent.

Pacific Fruit Express company, 157.70 per cent.

In four years the total increase in annual state appropriations amounted to $18,204,000. Of this increase, $16,629,000 was distributed as follows:

1. Education—Increase $10,279,000. Of this increase $7,044,000 was votetd by the people in 1920 for increase of teachers' salaries. There are more students in the high schools of California than in any other state in the union.

2. Construction, Development and Conservation—Increase of $4,698,000 accounted for by highway sinking fund and bond interest, flood control, agriculture and farm and home aid for veterans.

3. Institutions—Increase $1,652,000. Almost wholly in providing buildings for state hospitals and corrective institutions, absolutely necessary for housing of patients and inmates, owing to suspension of building activities during the war.

Classification of State Appropriations

The annual state appropriations totaling $44,100,000, including the amount collected by the state and apportioned to counties, may be listed under the following classification:

1. Education — $22,594,000, or 51.2 per cent of the whole. Includes $15,679,000 collected by the state on behalf of the counties and apportioned to them for administration and expenditure by their local elementary and high school districts; $7,044,000 of this amount was voted by the people in 1920 as an increase in teachers' salaries. Remainder of total applied to State university and its Southern branch, seven state normal schools and other educational institutions.

2. Constructive and Developmental—$7,300,000, or 16.6 per cent. Principal items are $3,100,000 interest and sinking fund of highway bond issues; $2,000,000 land settlement loan to soldiers; $900,000 flood control in Sacramento river and in Los Angeles county; $525,000 to agriculture.

3. Institutions — $6,600,000, or 14.9 per cent, for care of state's wards in insane asylums, feeble minded homes, reformatories and prisons. Mostly for food, shelter, clothing, medical attention, etc.

4. Benevolence — $1,900,000, or 4.3 per cent. Includes Orphans' Aid, Industrial Home for Blind, Woman's Relief Corps Home, Veterans' Home and Board of Charities and Corrections.

5. Regulative—$1,848,000, or 4.1 per cent. Includes all regulative commissions, railroad commission, industrial, accident, immigration and housing, Civil Service, and the like. Includes also the State Board of Health, in which the largest item is over $250,000 for tubercular control.

6. Administrative—$1,025,000, or 2.3 per cent. For treasurer, attorney-general, surveyor-general, controller and secretary of state; also for board of control, board of equalization, state printing office, state purchasing department, care of state capitol and rental of state offices outside of capitol.

7. Defensive and Conservation—$750,000, or 1.6 per cent. For National Guard, fire protection, conservation of forests and the like.

8. Judicial——$650,000, or 1.5 per cent. Supreme court, courts of appeal, and one-half salaries of superior court judges as required by constitution.

9. Legislative and Executive—$275,000, or 6 per cent. All expenses of legislative and executive departments of government.

10. Miscellaneous—$1,175,000, or 2.7 per cent. Mostly fixed charges, representing repayments to cities and counties for bonded indebtedness incurred previous to adoption of present tax system.

The achievements of the Stephens administration may be tabulated thus:

Progressive government in California strengthened and forwarded.

Special privilege seekers repelled, as a result of which Governor Stephens now enjoys the bitter enmity of the special privilege group.

King Tax Equalization bill adopted, by which taxes were equalized. State government now supported by taxation of public utilities, banks and insurance companies.

The best Veterans' Welfare program in the United States, adopted.

Japanese problem handled vigorously and effectively.

Broad and sound program of educational expansion effected.

Great agricultural resources of state fostered, advanced and protected as in no other state in the Union.

Flood control aided in Los Angeles and along the Sacramento river.

Important reforestation work effected.

Women given right to serve on juries.

Child labor laws strengthened.

Orphan aid extended.

Property owners protected and real estate business standardized by real estate brokers' license law.

Law and order vigorously enforced.

State government largely reorganized along modern departmental lines.

A business-like, economical and efficient administration; a full dollar's return secured for every dollar expended.

California, the one white spot of prosperity on the map, while all the rest of the nation and the world have been laboring under business depression.

UTAH INDIANS PAY HOMAGE TO SUN

Festival Lasts Three Days Without Food or Drink

FT. DUCHESNE, Utah, July 29.—The Indians of Ft. Duchesne have paid their annual homage to the sun.

They recently held their sun festival, which was largely a wild Indian dance, handed down through hundreds of generations. It lasted three days, during which the Indians went through the phases of the dance without food, drink or rest.

On the appointed day, the braves, bedecked in their war paint and feathers, rode out of the bushes at a point 14 miles from here, and began to circle around a pole, mounted on top of which was a large buffalo head. Earsplitting screeches, such as may have startled the first pioneers of the West, accompanied by volley after volley of shots directed at the buffalo head on the pole, opened the spectacular dance. The only modern feature of the dance was the presence of an American flag which was carried by the leader in opening the dance. He who rests often in the sun-dance is a weakling, and hence the braves continued their barbaric hop, skip and shuffle around the pole until some fell from exhaustion, while others rested only long enough to be able to continue again.

MILLION DOLLAR FAIR

Over one million dollars worth of exhibits, including commercial, agricultural, industrial and livestock products, will be displayed at the Ventura county fair to be held at Seaside park, Ventura, October 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 of this year. Requests for entry blanks are pouring into the office of the secretary. Likewise, the committee in charge of the 1922 fair promises that the exhibits will be bigger and better than ever before, in all departments.

A Danger Signal

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

Fondness for the grotesque is natural enough in little children. It is natural enough in them, not merely because their critical faculty is weak, but because, as any psycho-biologist will tell you, children "recapitulate" in their development the evolution of the race.

That is to say, in the first few years of life children rapidly pass through successive stages in mankind's history of gradual progress from neolithic uncouthness and barbarism. Hence there is a time when the thinking of children is essentially primitive—and fondness for the grotesque is one characteristic of primitive thinking.

Ordinarily, however, the grotesque ceases to charm as children advance in years. If its charm persists, or if in adult life there is a reversion to childish delight in the grotesque, there is in the one case reason to fear that mental growth has not gone as it should, in the other case warrant for believing that a more or less serious condition of nervous trouble is present.

All unknown to themselves, the nervous, it now is axiomatic with many medical psychologists, often entertain a subconscious wish that they once more were children—once more were back in the period of life when reality did not make demands which they feel themselves incapable of meeting. Under the influence of this subconscious wish they may in some degree return to the mental modes of childhood, including fondness for the grotesque.

From which, of course, it would seem to follow that the passion for the grotesque, in evidence in large masses of our adult population today, tesitfies to a widespread mental immaturity or a widespread neuroticism, or to both immaturity and neuroticism. There is ground for saying that it actually does so testify.

Recall, if you please, the findings of the psychologists who measured the mentality of the young men of our draft army.

Over a million and a half of those young men were carefully tested. Thousands upon thousands of them were found to have a mental age of less than ten years. And the psychologists pretty definitely established—if one may accept the validity of the tests they made—that the mental age of the average man examined was not more than fourteen.

Recall, too, the steady increase in mental and nervous disease revealed in successive surveys of the population of hospitals for the mentally and nervously sick. And the nervous in hospitals are a negligible quantity compared with the nervous who do not seek, or cannot obtain, hospital treatment.

To both these classes—the nervously overwrought and the mentally immature—the grotesque appeals for the reasons stated. The latter have never quite emerged above childish modes of thinking; the former have in some degree reverted to them, subconsciously seeking therby to escape from adult realities that hav become poignantly distressing to them.

And if today there are myriads who crave the grotesque—as there undeniably are—then of a truth one must affirm that our educational system is in grave need of improvement, and that means must be found both to improve the morale of multitudes and to make life less stressful to them.

That is my interpretation of the significance of the present-day ardor for the grotesque.

and certain streets and alleys intersecting therewith, as described in Resolution of Intention No. 1479, passed by said Council on the 27th day of April, 1922, to which said Resolution reference is hereby made for a description of said work, and of the district to be assessed therefor.

The Council of the City of Glendale determines that serial bonds shall be issued to represent assessments of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) or over for the cost of said work or improvement; said serial bonds shall extend over a period ending nine (9) years from and after the second day of January next succeeding the date of said bonds, and an even annual proportion of the principal sum thereof shall be payable by coupon on the second day of January every year after their date until the whole is paid; and the interest shall be payable semi-annually, by coupon on the second days of January and July, respectively, of each year, at the rate of seven (7) per cent per annum on all sums unpaid, until the whole of said principal and interest is paid. Said bonds shall be issued in accordance with the provisions of an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An Act to provide a system of street improvement bonds to represent certain assessments for the cost of street work and improvements within municipalities, and also for the payment of such bonds," approved February 27, 1893, and of all Acts supplementary thereto and amendatory thereof.

And thereafter, to-wit: On the 19th day of July, 1922, awarded the contract for said work to the lowest regular responsible bidder, to-wit:

Peter L. Ferry, at the prices named for said improvement in his proposal, on file for said improvement, to-wit:

8-inch Class "B" Cast Iron Pipe, per linear foot, laid	2.80
6-inch Class "B" Cast Iron Pipe, per linear foot, laid	1.70

And that said award has been approved by the Mayor of the said City of Glendale.

THREE MEN COUNT HALF BILLION AT MINT

Uncle Sam Found to Have Fine Line of Chicken Feed

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—A trio of men have just finished counting a bit of money here. It took them a couple of weeks to do it, but then, they had to be accurate.

The amount of change, large and small, which they counted, amounted to a little more than a half a billion dollars.

The three men were sent here by the treasury department to make the annual check on Uncle Sam's cash on hand in this part of the country.

The bulk of the money is in 70-pound solid gold hunks—what are known as "gold certificate bars." They are held in reserve just to prove that Uncle Sam's currency, his gold notes and federal reserve bank notes, are literally "good as gold."

The men doing the counting for Uncle Sam found that he had the following chicken-feed on hand:

In gold certificate bars—$368,343,655.04. In gold coin—$67,258,505. In gold bullion—$44,410,373.99. In silver dollars, $36,912,066. In other silver coins—$578,234. In silver bullion, $17,232,166.99. In nickels and pennies, $356,058.36. In currency—$348,240. In metal fund—$10,309.81.

The count showed an increase of coin and bullion in the mint of over $62,000,000 since the last settlement a year ago.

MRS. YEOMAN HAS BIRTHDAY

The lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Yoeman, of 113 North Orange street, was the scene of a delightful dinner party last night, celebrating Mrs. Yoeman's birthday.

The rooms were artistically decorated with pink roses and the table centerpiece was a large bowl of pink rosebuds.

Covers were laid for Dr. Edith Shank, of Mitchell, S. D., Dr. Grace Shank, of Los Angeles, Mrs. Geo. Shank of Anaheim, Miss Lorraine Mitchell of Glendale, Miss Ida Cummings of Los Angeles, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Yoeman.

Miss Litsenberg of 137 South Central avenue and Mrs. C. E. Smith of 229½ North Maryland avenue attended the matinee performance of "Letty Pepper" at the Mason Opera house, Los Angeles, on Wednesday afternoon.

GLENDALE ARTIST TO PLAY ON L. A. RADIO

Miss Hazel Linkogel Featured on Afternoon Program of Examiner

Miss Hazel Linkogel, violinist, of 560 Riverdale drive, was one of the artists who appeared Thursday evening on the radio program of the Los Angeles Examiner. The program was put on between 5 and 6 o'clock. Her sister, Mrs. Pearl Curran, accompanied her.

Miss Linkogel also will play Sunday morning at Grauman's Million Dollar theater, appearing on their regular Sunday morning concert. Mr. Grauman, after hearing her play, was so pleased with her wonderful ability that, even though his program was already filled, found a place for her.

Miss Linkogel has won the hearts of many violin music lovers with her talent displayed at many Glendale affairs, and word of her talent is fast spreading through Los Angeles and Southern California.

FORMER MAYOR OF CHAMPAIGN WANTS TO TREAT YOU

Free Ice Cream at Opening of Lexington Drug Store Saturday

Glen Tucker, former mayor of Champaign, Ill., who was converted to Glendale and will formally open his new drug store at the corner of Brand and Lexington avenue, Saturday, when he wants all Glendale to drop in and have a plate of ice cream as his guest.

Mr. Tucker, who is operating under the firm name of S. C. Tucker & Sons, is a druggist of long standing in his old home city, where folks were always friendly and interested.

"I am glad to be in business in Glendale," he said yesterday. "I wish folks would come in and have a plate of cream with me. I always like to feel sociable."

Miss Estelle Bradbury of 429 Lincoln avenue, who has been the guest for the past week of friends in Catalina Island, has returned to her home.

L. A. STOCKYARD INTERESTS IN NEVADA

G. I. Christie Is Investigating Livestock Industry at Reno

RENO, Nev., July 29.—G. I. Christie, representing the new Los Angeles Union stockyards, which will open on November 1 in time for the wet season, has been making an active investigation here of the livestock industry with a view to opening up new channels of trade between Los Angeles and this section of the cow-raising country.

Christie was director of the extension division of Purdue university and former assistant secretary of agriculture under Secretary Wilson during the war.

"The union stockayrds in Los Angeles, backed by J. A. Spoor, A. C. Leonard and H. E. Pronto, the same men that control the Chicago stockyards, will create a competitive market for Western livestock," he declared. "I am now making a survey of the livestock situation in the western states, and want to assist in developing the industry.

"In cooperation with the Southern Pacific, the Union Pacific and Santa Fe railroads, the Los Angeles stockyards will carry on extensive development program in the West to build up the livestock production and thus create a supply for the market.

"Unless livestock owners in Nevada ,New Mexico, Arizona, Idaho and California shipped their product to Chicago, they had no competitive market. Buyers came here and made offers, and the producer was not afforded a real market for his stock.

"By shipping to Los Angeles the stockman will have a competitive market, and his stock will not suffer the shrinkage that it suffers when shipped to Chicago."

LEGION TO HEAR REV. DR. CRIST

Dr. Clyde Monroe Crist of the First Methodist church will speak before the Glendale post of the American Legion at their regular meeting Friday evening at headquarters on Broadway.

The women's auxiliary of the American Legion will be "dark" in August. Its first fall meeting will be held the third Monday in September.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Roman report that they have rented the Kuntzner cottage at Balboa.

When away from home remember the long distance telephone

Do you realize the little effort required to assure those near and dear to you of your safety and comfort? The telephone in public pay station or hotel room—in fact, any telephone, anywhere—means that separation is measured by minutes, not miles.

Send the message of cheer and affection. You will be giving pleasure to others, which will be reflected in your own satisfaction.

Long distance telephone service is prompt, efficient and inexpensive.

STATION IN BOSTON OPENS AS SURPRISE

BOSTON, Mass.—This city's newest radio station for the broadcasting of concerts and entertainments was opened Thursday, July 6, when Mayor Curley broadcast the first official message from WGAU, the new radio station of the Edwin C. Lewis, Inc., electrical concern, at 121 Federal street.

For several weeks rumors have been circulated in radio circles that several new powerful broadcasting stations were about to open in the business district of the city during the summer, but the announcement of the Lewis station came as a surprise to fans. The new Shepard station will be ready for an official opening within the next few weeks. It is natural that the Lewis concern should establish a station, as it was one of the first firms in the city to take up the popular art as a serious and sound business proposition.

Equipment of the Lewis station is the latest apparatus obtainable from the Radio Corporation of America, and includes a transmitter of 100 watts, using radiotron tubes. Its range will cover all parts of New England, except that small strip around Springfield and Hartford, which, due to the mineral deposits in the hills near Worcester, makes radiophone broadcast reception impossible from any distant New England cities.

Unlike the Amrad station at Medford Hillside and the new Shepard station, the Lewis station will not broadcast nightly, but will start on a one-night a week program, which they thus hope to maintain to the highest standard possible in concert and general entertainment.

RADIO AND THE WOMEN

Many Openings for Women Are Found in New Art

The government now renders peace-time service for women who want to delve into the mysteries of radio. For those who wish to take up radio as a profession there is a chance to learn the meaning of the dots and dashes used in the International Morse Code free of charge. Information in detail will be supplied by writing to the nearest army headquarters. Lessons will be sent by mail, simple lessons, so that a student of average education may understand and grasp the principles. Government instructors will correct the lessons.

Women radio operators will be in evidence in the near future despite some present prejudices against their services. It is claimed that ships never engage women as radio operators, because in the case of accident the radio operator and the captain leaves the ship last. This would interfere with the unalterable code of "women and children first," yet women telephone operators have proven their bravery in the face of disaster by staying at their posts for days at a stretch.

Radio is open to women in many land stations. It is certain that when women prove themselves proficient in this new field they are bound to be in demand.

ETHER WAVES FILL HEAD

LAKEVIEW, Ore.—Sheriff Woodcock recently picked up a man near Summer lake to give him a ride to Lakeview. The man gave his name as Henry John Scullion and after riding a few miles he called the sheriff's attention to the radio music coming from the engine of the car. Later he told the sheriff that he could hear radio music and conversation at almost any time. He also explained how the pictures of the big men in the movies were taken. He claimed that they were puffed up with gas, and stated that he underwent the same experience while crossing the desert, the picture men following him until an opportune time for snapping him. The poor fellow was brought to Lakeview, and on examination was declared insane and later taken to Salem for confinement in the state hospital.

ETHER JABBER KEEPS TEUTON PLANTS BUSY

BERLIN, Germany.—The Drahtlose Uebersee-Verkehr, A. G., or Oversees Radio company of Germany, has attained a new record for message service. On March 16 a total of 50,000 words were exchanged via radio at the stations of this company at Nauen and Eilvese. Since the reconstruction of commercial relations, the traffic through these radio stations has been steadily increasing.

GREAT LAKES ON 30 KW ARC

GREAT LAKES, Ill.—The naval radio station at Great Lakes began broadcasting news and weather and crop bulletins for the department of agriculture recently, and now handles about 3200 words daily with a 32-kilowatt arc on a wave length of 4900 meters. A new 750-watt telephone transmitting set is being installed at the Great Lakes station, which it is expected will be completed soon.

NEW YORK.—The management of the Grand Central Palace was much surprised recently to learn that there was to be a permanent radio exposition, a dance hall and theater on one entire floor of their building and that 30 per cent of the space had already been optioned by radio equipment manufacturers. Somebody is either "spoofing" the management or else there is another "get-rich-quick" scheme afloat, for the president says that there is no radio exposition scheduled except for one to be held there in December of this year.

LISBON, Portugal.—An officer of the army of Portugal has developed a system which operates call bells by radiophone. Army circles say it will do away with prolonged watching for calls at radio receiving stations.

BLOCK OF ICE HER COOKING STOVE, BUT SEE THE TEA KETTLE SPOUTING STEAM

The ice is real. Liquified oxygen is the secret. The temperature of liquid oxygen is 312 degrees below zero and 344 degrees below freezing. The ice is intensely hot by comparison and when the oxygen is placed in the kettle it boils merrily.

PHUNNY STUFF

Claude—"I see Jones has radioized his motor car."

Clarence—"Yeh! he calls the garage service wagon that way now."

Broadcast But Not Heard

A definition of a crystal receiving set—Fishing for music with Galena bait!

Birds of a Feather Radio Together

Scientists claim that birds are born with ability to transmit and receive radio messages in their own way. Man must be a backward ignoramus.

Aunt Enna Has a Mental Capacity

When in doubt as to just what an aerial is, ask your Aunt Enna.

Only 360 Meters from the Stage, Sir!

The box-office of a theatre in New York is now equipped with a radio receiving set to take care of reservations from passengers on incoming steamers. S'pose nefarious radio ticket scalpers will now butt in and try to grab off all the orders.

Sell 'Em at the County Fair!

A young radio sharp at Ogdensburg, N. Y., recently heard through his set, "Come home with the car, Howard, I have to go to the store." Who can say that a set in the pasture will not soon call the cows at milking time, "Come, Bossie!"

Put 'Em on the Broadcast Program

"Please switch off the radiophone, won't you, dear?"

"But that's the famous Mme. Screecholini singing."

"I know, but I think the people in the next apartment are having a family quarrel."

It All Depends on How You Look at It

A writer says: "Ladies are attaching radio garters to their facilities for transportation." A low-down application of a great principle.

Listen In

All the world's broadcasting now,
Listen in.
Hear your neighbors in a row,
Listen in.
Hear a concert down the line,
List while politicians whine,
Might broadcast this lay of mine,
Listen in.

Barbers Are Also Saving Their Breath

And now it is the dentists who are profiting by radio. It is a great advantage to keep the mind of the patient off of his troubles. When telephone receivers are clamped on, what registers on the ears of the sufferer makes him more or less indifferent of what is going on in his mouth. Great possibilities for the soothing talker. Some of us will remember when a good talker made us feel it was a pleasure to be fired.

POSTOFFICE PLANT TO USE PHONE EXCLUSIVE

WASHINGTON. — Commencing July 1, station WWX of the postoffice at the capital, began to broadcast all its varied information by radiophone on 1,160 meter wave length, so that all may get the latest weather, crop and market news without knowing code. The daily schedule, except for the Saturday closing at 1 p. m., is as follows:

10 a. m., weather (eastern-central only); 10:30, Washington wholesale fruits and vegetables; 12:30 p. m., live stock, openings at St. Louis and Chicago (form 41); 2:15, Chicago and St. Louis live stock closing (form 20); 4:00, crop report and special market news; 3:30, general fruits and vegetables; 5:00, wholesaile dairy produce, New York and Chicago (form 59); 5:30, grain report; 7:30, live stock and grain (form 43); 8:00, fruits and vegetables; 9:30, weather.

FRENCH PLANES FLY AND LAND BY RADIO

Land Station in Trial Controls Ship in Flight for More Than Hour

PARIS.—In addition to controling flight of an aeroplane by radio, attempts are being made in France to devise mechanism to enable a plane not only to ascend pilotless but also to land without any hand on the controls.

Devices in course of perfection show wonderful ingenuity. In one case, a machine without a pilot, its engine having been started, runs across the aerodrome, causing to revolve at a rapidly increasing pace a small two-bladed fan or screw between the wings. The fan as soon as it turns a certain number places the control surface of the machine in the right position for ascent, its manoeuvers while aloft being controlled by radio.

When the time comes for landing, a signal has the effect of unrolling beneath the aeroplane a length of wire with a weight at the end. This weight, touching ground while the machine is at some little height, switches off the engine and causes the rear surfaces of the plane to set themselves in such a position that the landing wheels of the machine makes a smooth contact with the ground.

French radio control of aeroplanes has achieved already a notable triumph. A large machine was taken up by its pilot, who left the controls and allowed the machine to be manoeuvred for more than an hour by radio operators in a land station far below. At a given signal the pilot resumed control and landed.

RADIO BREAKS DOWN FARM ISOLATION

Little by little the man on the farm comes closer to city life. Radio will destroy the remaining isolation of the farm. It was not so very long ago when the farmer did not even have his mail delivered. Once a week found him on his way to the small town or city in the farm carry-all to procure the necessary groceries and to get the mail. Free rural delivery has brought both of these to him each day. Automobiles and good roads have aided him still more, for he can get away quickly in the evening and enjoy a ride that could not be had with the old horse and buggy.

Now the radiophone brings to him the entertainment that was impossible for him to see and hear in a small town. The small town does not have such entertainments. He is now just as good as his town fellowmen. He hears the same music and lectures as they do. He also has the many advantages of radio weather forecasts and market reports. The radiophone surely has brought good things to the door of the isolated man.

THE SEA LOSES SOME OF ITS TERRORS

Radio has certainly robbed the sea of some of its terrors. Recently the steamship Aropeso arrived in New York after a 3-day siege with fog. The data provided by the naval stations was so accurate that the ship came within sixty yards of the Fire Island lightship for which its course was set and then it was able to proceed to Sandy Hook and its pier.

The captain said it was superior to anything he had experienced in his many years at sea. The ship was found to be in exactly the location on its charts after obtaining the flashes from the navy stations. The navy should be proud of its work and radio is the instrument at hand that has brought about these new conditions. This may be a forerunner of the time when radio compass flashes will entirely span the ocean and be of help at all locations.

FAST SOUNDINGS MADE MINUS WIRE AND LEAD

NEW YORK. — The destroyer Stewart, equipped with the Sonic range finder, used for sounding at sea, has made a practical test trip from Newport to Gibraltar. The new method is closely related to radio, depending on the transmission of sound waves through water, and is employed to measure depths of the ocean. Soundings are made by measuring the length of time required for sound oscillations sent out from the ship to travel to the bottom of the ocean and back again. Dr. Harvey C. Hayes of the naval engineering technical staff, who aided in the development of the new naval equipment, is making the trip on the Stewart.

Daily reports from the destroyer, during her trip across the Atlantic, indicate that the apparatus was a great success. Soundings were taken at regular intervals without stopping the ship, and indicated depths from 90 to 2500 fathoms. These soundings correspond to those taken by the old laborious method with the wire and lead, which required the stopping of the ship for one or two hours during the operation.

SHRINERS SHATTER RAILROAD RECORDS

CINCINNATI, O.—All transcontinental radio records were shattered by the radio equipped Shriner train of 12 cars carrying the Syrian Temple delegation from Cincinnati, O., which was recently handled by the Southern Pacific. A long-distance radiophone receiving record of 2000 miles was established as well as a 3000-mile record for telegraph reception while in motion.

Aerials were constructed eight inches above the roof of one of the forward cars and were 160 feet in total length. A rail ground was used. The receiving equipment included honeycomb coils and a two-step audio frequency amplifier.

The train left Cincinnati in constant contact with both coasts. At Denver, musical programs were enjoyed from the big radio stations at Pittsburg and Chicago. At Colorado Springs the Cincinnati station was heard. The long-distance record was made at Santa Barbara when the radio, while the train was in motion, picked up the government station at Annapolis, 3000 miles away. This is claimed to be a record for daylight reception under any conditions and an astonishing record on two steps of amplification from a moving train.

LONDON.—A test was made recently at Castleton, England, to find out if underground communication was a practical thing. A radio receiving set was taken a quarter of a mile into the heart of a coal mine. Here a 50-foot aerial was strung across the tunnel. The usual connections were then made and when the set was tuned properly, the investigators were able to hear plainly signals sent out from Cornwall, Paris and Berlin.

Truths in Epigram

For words are wise men's counters,—they do but reckon by them; but they are the money of fools.—Hobbes (1588-1679).

Ignorance of the law excuses no man; not that all men know the law, but because 'tis an excuse every man will plead, and no man can tell how to refute it.—Selden (1584-1654).

THE BRIGHT FUTURE

President Vauclain of the Baldwin locomotive works in Philadelphia says that Los Angeles is destined to be the second city in the United States. There was time when such a prophesy would have been deemed baseless. There even was a time when the prediction of a half million population was received as the vision of idle dreamers. That the harbor at San Pedro is destined to be one of the greatest harbors of the world has become the settled belief of students of industrial and commercial affairs.

There is a theory advanced occasionally, that in the future there will be no vast centers of population. The population is to be scattered over the country, and the city will be maintained, not as a place of residence, but of business; a spot from which to flee to the remoteness of some area now a wilderness. Probably this theory had its origin in the mind of an individual holding lofty ideals as to the charm of country life, and oppressed by the clamor of crowds. If it has any basis in fact, the fact has not yet been cited. The tendency of humanity to seek contact with its own kind, never yet has failed to control its movements.

Considering Los Angeles as a vast city, it will be an index to the growth of the whole region. Much has been done to efface the desert. Probably this feat is but a beginning. Land now producing will be made to produce more, and now barren will be taught to bloom. Such a city as foreseen by Mr. Vauclain and many others would absorb a circle of growing municipalities each now independent, and prosperous in its own right. It would cause the country to be more densely peopled. But cities are not builded for the purpose of being abandoned. If the owner of a city lot chooses to trade it for a farm, the lot will not lack occupants.

Reasons for the growth of this section, concentrated now in its principal city, but affecting all surrounding cities, are plain enough. It offers climatic advantages unknown elsewhere. It affords unlimited openings for investment. In scenic beauty it is unrivalled. It is recognized as in the path of traffic to and from the Orient. Moreover it has the utmost faith in itself, and has not hesitated to spread abroad a knowledge of its self-confidence, and of its abundant opportunities. People come to see, and they stay because they find conditions more nearly perfect than any they had known.

FLATTENING THE FLAPPER

General Moseley, stationed at the presidio of San Francisco, takes a fall, as it were, out of the flapper. He protests against the fact that the bob-haired, lipsticked, calsomined and short-skirted person should have objected to the army uniform. Soldiers are welcome to call on the flapper of this type, but they must first discard uniforms and don civilian clothes. This does not seem fair. The soldiers, being a gallant lot, refrain from laying down rules for the garmenting of the flapper. They might stipulate that she wash her face, cease plucking her eye-brows, or weighting her lids with something having the aspect of lampstick. They do not do any of these things. They are willing to ignore the visible signs of flapper lunacy, and accept the flapper herself as sanely feminine. But the chit tells them how they must dress. The cheek of her! One might say the painted cheek of her.

It was time, not so long ago, when this giddy female, ceasing briefly from her giddiness, sought to be useful. That was when war was over the world. Then the soldier was a man to be honored. The man devoid of uniform had no chance at all. He was ignored or elbowed into the gutter. The uniform is the same now. In many instances the man is the same. The flapper it is who is different. The change has not been for the better. The habit of barring uniformed soldiers from places of public resort is foolish and insulting. The soldiers have a right to resent it. Of course they will feel resentful towards the flapper, too, but really she is not worth bothering about.

WHY MOORE IS GAINING

Charles C. Moore has made a pleasing impression on the people of the south. They like his personality. They are delighted with his frankness. He clings to the main issue, and the petty things on which the opposition lays clamorous emphasis, he ignores as of no importance. He is the soul of modesty, and yet, quietly and effectually, he lets his hearers know, if they had been unaware, that Senator Johnson has ceased to represent them. Mr. Moore was selected by republicans as the best material to remedy the present lack. He will stand for the administration, and for California, two duties neglected by the incumbent.

The senior senator's followers are endeavoring to make capital out of circumstances that have no feature worthy of notice excepting their triviality. Johnson is for proper protection of coast industries, they exclaim. But who isn't? He is opposed to child labor. What public man could be otherwise? Everybody is opposed to child labor. This is in response to a natural humane impulse. It does not entitle any individual to especial credit.

There are two elements marking the recent activities of Senator Johnson, either one of which should be sufficient to end his political career. The first is his hostility to the four power pact, a project admitted by civilization generally, to have been most benign and important. It was put forward as the conception of President Harding. The manifest duty of Johnson was to aid the plan. On the contrary, he fought it bitterly; none the less bitterly when his constituents had begged him to desist from a course they utterly condemned.

The second matter to be considered is the subserviency of Senator Johnson to Hearst, a sinister and mischievous force in the political underworld. The conduct of Senator Johnson, repugnant to the people he was supposed to represent, was in precise accord with the wishes, and probably with the orders of Hearst. The latter had paid Johnson legal fees. He had financed Johnson's personal fight against the principles expressed in the four power pact. He had been influential in getting the senator a job as Tammany attorney. Perhaps it was not altogether surprising that as a climax to all this, the senator was to be observed in an attitude little more dignified than that of errand boy for Hearst; but it was humiliating, and it disgusted California republicans.

When Charles C. Moore is senator he will look out for the interests he is elected to serve. He will be in harmony with the President. He will not be taking orders from Hearst.

WHAT IS DEMOCRACY?

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ARTICLE I.

Some time ago I wrote for The Red Cross Magazine a definition of Democracy. It has been republished in other periodicals, but I wish to go over the question again and give the idea a wider circulation through the newspapers. I have rewritten the whole matter.

DR. FRANK CRANE

The first essential to clear thinking is definition.

There are ten sections to this definition, each somewhat distinct and yet all interdependent.

As the scientist cannot deal with a germ intelligently until he has "isolated" it, that is, separated it and got it away from all other germs and other matter so that he can see just exactly what it is, so we must isolate any idea in order to think clearly about it.

The defintion is as follows:

Democracy is (1) a Force (2) of Opinion (3) and of Feeling (4) operating within the People (5) enabling the Majority of them (6) to Get what they Want (7) by means of Organization (8) and to make these gains secure by Laws, (9) for it is only by making its own Mistakes that a nation can (10) achieve its destiny, which is to Grow.

And, first of all, Democracy is a Force. That is the kind of thing it is. To understand a thing we must first find out that group of things to which it belongs.

It is because it is a Force that we do not understand it.

We don't understand any force in the world. We use forces. They are essential to life, but we don't understand them.

Electricity is a force, so is gravitation, so is life, so is love, and so is conscience.

These forces are absolutely essential to existence. We could not live a day or an hour without them. All education consists in learning how to use them.

But what any one of them really is we have not the slightest notion.

Democracy is the force in a nation which makes it develop, just as there is some mysterious principle in the acorn which makes it become an oak.

It is different from all the forms of government that have preceded it, because its object is not to make a perfect machine of the state, but to develop the people that compose the state.

Democracy is not Socialism. It is not the same kind of thing that Socialism is. You can tell that by looking at the two words. Democracy is a "cracy" meaning a power, and Socialism is an "ism" meaning a system.

A Democracy might conceivably be Socialistic. It might even have an hereditary king. For it is not so much a form of government as it is a principle of government.

In fine, mankind is a social organism, and Democracy is that life principle within it by reason of which it grows toward perfection.

The Salutation

Capitalize the first word of a salutation; as, My dear Mr. Smith.

Do not capitalize the word dear in a salutation without it is written as the first word; as, My dear Frank; Dear Mr. Robinson.

When writing a firm of women use the word mesdames; as, Mesdames.

Follow the salutation of a business letter by a colon without a dash. However, if the letter is being written to a friend and is of a familiar nature, custom dictates that a comma may be good form.

Begin the salutation on the left hand margin.

A salutation's words that are capitalized, in addition to the first word, are the proper name and any little showing honor or position; as, Dear Professor Jones.

Do not follow the title Miss by a period.

When addressing an individual woman any one of the following salutations is good form (arranged in descending order of formality): Madam; My dear Madam; Dear Madam; My dear Mrs. Otis; Dear Mrs. Otis.

If the addressee is a man, salutations in good form and arranged in descending order of formality are as follows: Sir; My dear Sir; Dear Sir; My dear Mr. Brown; Dear Mr. Brown; My dear Brown; Dear Brown; My dear Bill; Dear Bill.

Gentlemen is the salutation used when the addressee is a firm or corporation.

Yesterday's Error

"Do you think the enclosed clipping is written correctly by the use of the plural verb 'are,' if it is incorrect, is it not possible, etc."

A new sentence should have begun with "if it is incorrect."

Vocabulary

"Her bedrenched and flaccid garments."—W. Black.

Flaccid: "Soft and limber; lax; drooping by its own weight; without firmness or elasticity; flabby; as, flaccid flesh."—Century.

Pronunciation: flak' sid (a as in at; i as in habit).—Century, Webster, Standard and Oxford.

For observation: flaccidity (noun) flaccidness (noun); flaccidly (adverb).

Origin: flaccidus (Latin)—flabby.

THE LISTENING POST

Sometimes we are worried about the modern civilization.

We fret about the times.

Refer to the good old times when all men were courageous and honest and when women were all modest and beautiful in their sweetness and simplicity of character.

* * *

We are sometimes inclined to believe the times were never as bad as now.

Men were never so careless of their reputations.

Women never so flippant and thoughtless.

So we lament and regret and preach and proclaim and declare and pronounce Jeremiads upon the state of society.

* * *

That is a tendency of teachers and preachers and students and psycho-analysts.

Doubtless the same lamentations were uttered in China five thousand years ago.

In Egypt and Rome and Greece and wherever there have been people and problems.

* * *

Flippancy and evil are always things of the present.

Because we are here to see.

Courage and virtue and honesty are always in the good old times.

Because memory sets down the good things.

Glosses over the weakness and imperfections.

* * *

It is interesting to note what the humorists and philosophers and critics and students said of the good old days.

The day to which we are accustomed to refer for examples of courage and virtue and honesty and uprightness.

And to see how far our Jeremiads are justified.

* * *

Take the following paragraph, for instance:

"Then (in the good old days) we had maidens until they had been looked upon by at least twenty summers and were modest enough to pick out a husband from a score of earnest and honest men whose very eyes had the promise of bread in them. Now fifteen summers make a woman (or what we are obliged to take for one) and one so ripe too that he who first shakes the bush gets the eager fruit."

* * *

That sounds as though some writer of today was describing the modern flapper and lamenting the decadence of young womanhood.

But it was written by Josh Billings, the critic and humorist, in 1868.

* * *

We have merely spelled it right.

The words are Josh's.

So evidently sixty years ago there were lamentations of the flippant present.

And the glorious past.

* * *

Let us read another of the lamentations:

"Then industry created wants, virtue tempered them and frugality supplied them. Now luxury has taken the place of industry, pride the place of virtue and extragance the place of frugeality."

It all sounds as though it might have been written today.

By some one of the many Jeremiahs.

* * *

But it was written over fifty years ago.

Of the times then existing as Billings saw them.

And yet the world has gone on.

Civilization still survives.

And the good old days of which we are accustomed to speak were bitterly lampooned and despised by a writer of the sixities.

* * *

There is plenty of need for wholesome preachment.

For inspiration and stimulation and encouragement.

For the battle against dishonesty and flippancy and all that.

But our day is not hopeless as some would have us believe.

For look what Billings said about his!

JAMES W. FOLEY.

SONGS OF THE POETS

The Parting—By Michael Drayton (1653-1631)

Since there's no help, come let us kiss and part—
Nay, I have done, you get no more of me;
And I am glad, yea, glad with all my heart,
That thus so cleanly I myself can free.
Shake hands forever, cancel all our vows,
And when we meet at any time again,
Be it not seen in either of our brows
That we one jot of former love retain.
Now at the last gasp of Love's latest breath,
When, his pulse failing, Passion speechless lies,
When Faith is kneeling by his bed of death,
And Innocence is closing up his eyes,
Now if thou wouldst, when all have given him over,
From death to life thou might'st him yet recover.

GIVE US SHORT NAMES

By DR. EDWIN E. SLOSSON

When a man makes a new invention his work is not done. He should invent a new name for it. Here he is apt to fail for, being more of a mechanic than a philologist, he turns over the job to the Greek professor who manufactures one out of old roots. So it happens that many a handy little pocket tool is handicapped by a name that wraps three times around the tongue. But the people refuse to stand for it.

Consider what a Babel-like botch has been made of the job of naming the new art of photographing action. Rival inventors, rival word-wrights, and rival systems of Greek transliteration precipitated a war of words in which the chief belligerents were animatograph, animatoscope, bioscope, chronophotography, cinema, cinematograph, cinematoscope, cineograph, cineoscope, electroscope, kinema, kinemacolor, kinematograph, kinematoscope, kinetescope, motion pictures, moving pictures, photo plays, tachyscope, verliscope, vitagraph, vitascope, zootrope, zoogyrograph, zoogyroscope and zoopraxiscope.

But the people—they call it "the movies." It is not a great name, but it is better than some at least of those listed above.

If, instead of trying to load the new machine with a name implying that it had been invented in Athens or Rome, its godfather had given it a respectable convenient name of one or two syllables like "kodak," "volt," "velox," or "viscose," much of this confusion might have been saved. Think how many millions of dollars, years of time, barrels of ink and cubic miles of hot air would have been saved if "electricity" had been named in one syllable instead of five. We might even now cut it down to "el" except that by popular vote the six syllables of "elevated railroad" has been reduced to that handy term. So, too, the people have found a way to reduce "radiotelephony" to a single mouthful, "radio."

The lesson of it is that if the father of a new invention does not want to have his child called by a nickname let him give it a short and snappy name on the start.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

A POETIC SENATOR

[Louisville Courier-Journal]

It remains for Senator Underwood to become lyrical over the grand old days of yellow fever, portable bathtubs and gas lights.

"Our grandmothers," he said, "may not have ridden in automobiles; they may not have been able to buy Florida strawberries in the middle of winter; they may not have been able to get their fish out of a refrigerator which had kept it from time immemorial. But their health was better."

Since Senator Underwood cannot qualify as a grandmother, some of that beloved species should arise and tell the Alabama expert that he should know better than to make remarks like this.

Mr. Underwood's remarks, it should be stressed, were not scientific or educational, but simply lyrical. They savored of the same instinct which inspires the poet to sing of the days when maidens were fair and knights were bold, ignoring the fact that during those same time dentists were rare and pyorrhea flourished; that hot and cold running water faucets were unknown, and that life was just one discomfort after another.

Similarly, Mr. Underwood, in his zeal for grand-motherdom, does not take into account that our grandmothers were wonderful, not because they didn't have access to conveniences, but in spite of that.

AWFUL THOUGHT

[Galveston News]

Let us think seriously a moment, and imagine what a world this would be if all men were in congress and all women in the movies.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The visit of Will Hays to the movie center, which is this community, is likely to result in great good. Mr. Hays is a man of intelligence and of high morals. He knows a lot, and is aware that there is a lot he does not know, a circumstance that stamps him as wise indeed.

HENRY JAMES

Mr. Hays realizes that movie picture production is a great industry, but that there are methods connected with it that need amending. He asks the film people to aid him. They are ready and eager to respond. He asks the public for help. The public, too, is willing. It wants good pictures. By good pictures it means such as are at once artistic and clean.

Moving pictures constitute a powerful agency for education along many lines. They can convey to the spectators the spirit of literature. They can bring to the common mind a knowledge of the arts, and sciences and human progress. They can furnish forth beauty, inspiration, definite instruction. It is essential that the stars of the screen be men and women of character, attainment and recognized standing as individuals. The day when publicity was sought by trick and device and reprehensible social activities may be counted as gone.

Mr. Hays is said to receive a very large salary. If he can carry out his ideas, he will earn every dollar of it and be entitled to a bonus.

Whoever else is running can't be seen, by reason of Brinkop's dust.

Several of the "terrorists" of Chicago have been placed on trial for murder. There is a wide belief in their guilt, but not the slightest expectation that they will be convicted.

When men charged with a capital offense are permitted liberty on bail, a trial becomes but a useless formality.

It is said that Mrs. Obenchain intends to return to her ex-husband. The man in question has acted in a very foolish fashion, and possibly deserves this.

At this writing there are sundry obstacles in the way of the plan, however laudable the plan.

Strikers still are striking. The wave of prosperity thus is threatened with subsidence. Violence is quite frequent and ineffective. The outcome is variously guessed, because nobody really knows it.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

This is an honest-to-goodness quotation from a lady—and therefore, fair ones, do not strike me. Cross my heart. Mrs. Pilgrim herself said it. This is what she said:

"How few women there are who measure up to their husbands in moral or mental stature."

She had no reference to the Pilgrim household, of course. We know where we stand in our house, and I'm well down toward the foot of the list. Mrs. Pilgrim often muses that one of the puzzles of her life is how it happened that I got her. I have never yet dared the rejoinder that it is one of the puzzles of mine, too. In my normal moments, of course; I am duly thankful that I did. But I have spells. I sometimes think that if I had shown just a little more speed——

"Look at 'em," Mrs. Pilgrim said, hastily calling the roll of husbands and wives of our acquaintance. There are the Longfellows. The husband is a fine-looking, intelligent, broad-gauge man who holds an important position in a big firm. The wife, a concentrate of delicatessen ham, canned beans and movies. The Marburys. The husband a hard-working, earnest, well-liked man, who holds a good place also. Every cent he gets goes to pay the upkeep on his wife, who is supposed to be a professional lecturer. They haven't saved a cent in ten years. They have even borrowed money on his life insurance, just to keep her on the road half the time.

"They make trouble—drat 'em," said Mrs. Pilgrim.

And that's the evangelical truth. Half the women she knows—she must stand for this—have razor edges on their tongues and have dipped those useful members in venom. They gossip nastily. Mrs. Longfellow, for a case in point, has held her husband back from promotion. She is jealous for him. She wants him to make more money and have a large car and hold a more responsible place. And because these good things have not come as quickly as she would like she razzoos his bosses.

"The dirty crooks," she says. 'Holding him back this way."

Longfellow would not talk that way. He would not think that way. If he did think that way he would not lower himself by talking that way. Poor Mrs. Longfellow——

"Why do fine men marry the sort of women they do, anyhow?" asks Mrs. Pilgrim in a puzzle.

Mind you, she said it. I didn't.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA E. STEWART

How fussy we get, we women! Yes, and men, as well. Little things loom larger than the universe. Our tastes grow finical, our tempers irritable, our comments on others unkindly critical. Hurry seems to be our daily habit. There's no time or place for the quiet reflection that brings mental poise and mental strength. We seem so caught in the maelstrom of everyday life that there's no outlet. And so we go on and on, getting more fuzzy-wuzzy in our thoughts—and words—until we lose the joy of self-repose, and those about us suffer as well as do we.

Then there are others of us who are fuzzy-wuzzy by nature. We have no thought for else save the daily toil and the latest movie, the mode of the day and what "he said." We never aim for the high spots of life, because we simply don't know they are there. Bounded on the north by fashion, on the east by our neighbor's affairs, on the south by the latest jazz melody, and on the west by the screen drama, how can we?

But fussiness and fuzzy-wuzziness don't get us far under life's surface. And life's surface is like old Mother Earth: She has many jewels hid for the patient digger, as well as life-sustaining elements for growing things. We've got to have the roots of our being under the surface of things if we get the most out of life. The only plants in Nature that do not take rest are of but little use. The parasite growth takes without giving, the orchid gives only a strange exotic beauty for a day.

Let's drive the fussiness out by digging deeper into the heart of things.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

There are on the average three earthquakes a day in different parts of the globe.

The potential energy of falling water of the streams in Brazil is estimated to be about three and a quarter times that of Niagara Falls.

Female crickets, grasshoppers and katydids are dumb.

The natives of Ayon Island, 700 miles west of Bering Strait, do not know their own ages—but they kill old people as an act of mercy.

An institute for testing and studying metals has just been organized in Sweden.

Any man is well off who thinks he is, even if he hasn't a penny. Mental wealth is more lasting than dollar wealth.

YOUTH'S AMBITIOUS FIRES

JAMES W. FOLEY

He calls me Bub and does not seem to know
That though I'm small I've got a chance to grow,
And some day when I'm famous he'll be glad
To think he knew me when I'm but a lad.
Perhaps I'll be a scout upon the plains,
Like Buffalo Bill, with terrible bloody stains
Upon my clothes from fighting savage foes,
And be so great that everybody knows
About my deeds and wonder if it's so
I am the lad they knew so long ago.

Or I may be the leader of a band
Which marches by with music awful grand,
And sweet to hear, and when they come to see
They'll know I've got the proper stuff in me
Which makes success and they will come and say:
"I knew you when a little boy one day,
And used to call you Bub and never knew
You had such genius." And the people who Made fun of me when I was small will see
How rich and famous I have grown to be.

Or I may be conductor of a train
Or be a pirate on the Spanish main
Or captain of a ball team which has won
The pennant when the playing season's done,
Or many other famous things and pour
My money out like water and get more
By only drawing checks. And then I'll go
To the old town I used to live, and show,
My diamond studs and all the folks will stare
And tell their boys I used to once live there.

LITTLE DOROTHY IS LAID TO REST

Police Department Lose Little Daughter of Patrolman LaRock

The entire police force assembled at the Jewel Undertaking parlors yesterday morning to share the grief of Mr. and Mrs. Forest LaRock, at the funeral of their little daughter, Dorothy. It was their funeral, the obsequies of a daughter of the department.

Mr. Mr. LaRock is a member of the Glendale city police, a loyal comrade of the men in uniform, and they knew the little one, the little twin of the LaRock household.

Banked high with flowers from the department, the little casket lay. Over it the Rev. W. E. Edmonds of the Presbyterian church spoke comforting words of the union in the beyond; but the little one had been such a sweetheart of all the men there, and they knew they should miss her.

She had made a brave fight, during two weeks in the hospital with whooping cough and double pneumonia, and at times it seemed she would win. But the end came Tuesday afternoon when the tired little one relaxed and passed on.

CHANGES IN CITY CHARTER URGED BY WOODWARD

Former City Attorney Suggests Amendments to the Council

The Glendale city charter should be amended, Bert Woodard, formerly city attorney, suggested in a communication to the city council, read last night at the meeting.

The communication, which was referred to the committee of the whole, was as follows:

"At the time the charter of the city of Glendale was prepared and submitted to the people, it was recognized by the board of freeholders who drew the same, that it would probably need amending from time to time. It has now been in operation since the election of your honorable board, something over a year ago, and I feel sure that your experience in managing the affairs of the city under the charter for that length of time, has placed you in a position to know what provisions thereof should be amended.

"It is possible that the provisions in section 10, of article VI of the charter, might be amended to advantage. This section is the section providing that a revolving fund may be created by a bond issue for the purpose of financing the costs of public work for which the city may be the lowest bidder, and also conferring upon the council the power to provide by ordinance, a complete procedure whereby the city may bid on all public work done under the provisions of any local ordinance or resolution. Section 6, article XXIII, also dealing with the power of the council to adopt procedure ordinances, might be made a little more definite.

"A great deal has also been said about the limitation of the tax rate fixed in the charter for any one year at not exceeding one per cent of the assessed valuation, and it is possible that this limitation should be extended.

"The question of the power of the council to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of a former city treasurer arose at the time of his resignation, when it was found that no direct authority was conferred upon the council to name his successor. The charter should be amended so as to specifically confer upon the council the power to fill such vacancies.

"The charter does not provide for an assistant city attorney and it might be advisable to propose an amendment which would provide for the appointment of such assistant, rather than to have him derive his authority from an ordinance.

"To my mind the salary of $10 for each meeting of the council attended, not to exceed six meetings in each month, is not enough to be paid the councilmen for their services. Glendale is now a large city, even larger than we thought it would be a year ago, and a councilman should be better compensated for the time and energy expended and the responsibility assumed.

"The constitution of the state under which the charter was framed, provides that the charter may be amended by proposals therefor submitted by the legislative body of the city on its own motion, or by petition signed by 15 per cent of the registered electors, and that such proposals shall be submitted to the electors only during the six months next preceding a regular session of the legislature or thereafter and before the final adjournment of that session.

"You are in a position to, and I believe will, propose any amendment thereto which would, in your judgment, be advantageous to the city, rather than to expect the same to be presented by petition signed by 15 per cent of the registered electors. There are elections which will occur during the six months next preceding the regular session of the next legislature, at which elections such proposed amendments could be submitted, and the object of this letter is to call to your attention a few of the provisions of the charter which have been questioned since its adoption, in order that time enough may be had to give the whole matter due consideration and to present such proposed amendments as may be deemed advisable, without a mad rush to get them through before the next legislature meets and adjourns.

"If I can be of service in the matter in any way, I will be glad to do so, and I am confident that the entire membership of the board of freeholders, who drew the charter, will also be glad to co-operate with you and render any service they can."

VACANT CHAIR IN THE RUSSELL HOME

Has anybody seen Dr. Jessie A. Russell's dog?

It was an Airedale—the cutest little Airedale—with the dearest crop of perfectly straight brown hair you ever saw. It had a stubby tail and two ears, just like a common, ordinary dog.

Someone maliciously took said canine from Dr. Russell's office at 208 South Brand boulevard yesterday morning, and the little dear has not been seen since.

If you happen to talk to this little dog, tell him to go back home, for his chair is still vacant.
